SKINNY KRIBBLES

Around And About Town

With C. F. (Skirvin) SKIRVIN

If I were going into the contracting business I'd specialize in dog houses. I get this hunch from the sidelines. So many of my friends tell me about being "in the dog house" that I am sure I could solve the unemployment problem. The dog house is a refuge for domestic incompatibility. When the sailing is rough, husbands want to put out to sea, and they prefer a house that will float. If it won't float the farthest spot in the back yard is the safest. There you can howl your discontent to your heart's capacity, and the neighbor's discomfort. I am convinced my idea is worth submitting to the Orange County Builders exchange, so Mr. Secretary Bassett, you may expect a communication from me to read at the next regular meeting.

And then there was Frank West who was talking about cars, used and otherwise, who said that a dealer offered him a certain sum of money for his automobile and he admitted that it was worth half that much. He didn't say who the dealer was or submit any definite information, and I think that's the way to sell a car—or keep it. If this item starts a stream of salesmen to Frank's office, I know where I will stand.

Now I know where to send my friends who want to know why the stock market slumped. I'll send 'em to Pegler, and Pegler will send 'em to the automobile mechanic, and the mechanic will send them to the broker, and the broker will send them to Aranas. The answer that old "Ana" will give ought to prove that while all men may not be liars, they are not far from it.

The time is rapidly approaching when it is going to be difficult for me to differentiate superficially between Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts. The equipment is becoming so similar that I am confused in my sex appeal. However, it doesn't matter so much. Both sides are affiliated with movements having wholesome and healthful purposes, and we need more of that kind.

Football games had a little competition Saturday in Santa Ana. New car models vied some for attention. Several displays were on and with the somewhat astonishing result that there are still some people who are more interested in automobiles than football. One of the firms had a Hollywood sultan, another the conservative color type, and one of these days I'm expecting the lip-stick rouge.

Some fellow was so interested in the football results last Saturday that he turned out the radio in his car and left it. When I went by, the radio was doing its duty, but it had no audience.

Washington sends out word that the financial indicator points to more taxes. And I thought we had a promise of balancing the budget. Some must have got too heavy on one side, and I'm inclined to believe it was on the relief side. If you are running a business and spend more money than you take in, there must be relief from some source in order to keep the business moving. If it isn't forthcoming, the business will stop. Then who balances the budget?

About the only way I know of to beat this tax penalty is to acquire a big family. Children contribute to exemptions.

Jerry Sullivan, whose business it is to put in new oil station pumps, and he has some business, tells me that in a nearby city during the earlier installation of meter pumps, a customer was so intrigued with the operation of the machine that after getting his first five gallons, called to his wife to see the pump in action and ordered five gallons more. He finished the inspection by buying 14 gallons before he was satisfied, and I don't think he was satisfied then. The tank was full, and that stopped him. Now this is Jerry's story, and besides he's a good salesman.

And it was Jack Lackland's little "brudder" from Idaho, who, after being introduced, wanted to know if I was a city councilman. Now Penn and Layton and Smith

Seek Woman's Body as Murder Suspect Held

VICTIM MAY BE BURIED NEAR ORANGE

El Modena Man Tells Of Fight With Wife

A suspected murder that will never be proved or disproved until the body—either alive or dead—of his young wife is discovered, today had landed an El Modena Mexican in county jail. While Louis Lopez, 28, who has been living at the Lewis court on Cypress street in Orange, was being arraigned on suspicion of murder, police and deputy sheriffs were pressing a grim, systematic search for the body of a small woman they believe may be buried in some secluded field between Orange and El Modena.

On their search—and on frantic checks in northern California where Lopez claims his wife fled when she disappeared nearly three weeks ago—rests the fate of the young laborer.

Lopez had admitted to Orange police that he and his 22-year-old spouse, Louisa Lopez, were in a fight on the night of Oct. 8. He even admitted having struck her, knocked her to the floor and then going to sleep while she lay there, according to sheriff's reports.

She disappeared while he slept, the husky young El Modena claimed.

Deputy sheriffs who have been grilling Lopez since last Thursday, when Orange police called them into the case, said his story has conflicted with itself several times.

They are working on the theory that Mrs. Lopez did not willfully disappear. She has four small children, the oldest of which is five years old. Her four-month-old baby is still ill in the Orange county hospital.

So far, officers have found no clue that might lead them either to the woman's body or to her hiding place in case she still is alive.

BELEIVE BODY NEARBY
Lopez had no car and claimed he couldn't drive one if he did have. Deputy sheriffs consequently believe that, in the event their murder suspicions are well-founded, the woman's body will be within easy walking distance of the Orange residence where the woman was last seen.

The Lopez children all were too small to be of help to investigating officers. They had been told their mother went away, but they didn't know where or under what circumstances.

NO CLOTHES TAKEN
Lopez at one time told officers he believed his wife had gone with four Orange men. Deputies are checking this story, but so far have found nothing to either substantiate or refute it.

The theory that Mrs. Lopez did not leave the house voluntarily was based, according to deputies, on the fact her clothes were left behind. She had been wearing a blue checked dress when last seen, and that was the only one of her dresses missing from a closet in the apartment.

DOWN 3 PLANES
MADRID. (AP)—The Spanish government reported three trimotored Italian bombers were brought down by pursuit planes today during insurgent air raids on Barcelona and coastal cities.

Salary Cuts Okeh, Says Prof. Corn

Every time your salary is cut it is a break for you and prosperity comes a little closer to your corner.

This is so, according to Prof. C. de Corn, because the less money the boss pays you, the more he has to invest, and consequently the more capital he possesses. If he stopped paying you entirely, he would have just that much more to invest and prosperity would be here for all—maybe.

If this puzzles you as much as it does us, turn to page 3 today and read the Professor's column on wage cuts and why they are good for the salaried man.

BRITISH TO FIRE UPON WAR PLANES

Soldier's Death in China Brings Edict

SHANGHAI. (AP)—British authorities, as an aftermath of the slaying of a British soldier by a Japanese warplane yesterday, issued orders to all their defense posts to fire without hesitation in self-defense against any airplanes.

Simultaneously, British officials lodged two protests on the incident. Seven Americans and about a score of other foreigners were endangered yesterday when a Japanese plane sprayed machine gun bullets near the western edge of the international settlement.

Bitter fighting amid the ruins of Shanghai, still was in progress. Japanese asserted they had occupied villages west of Tazang.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's embattled Chinese armies stopped the Japanese juggernaut offensive today after six days and nights of heavy fighting on the Shanghai front.

The Japanese army spokesman admitted that the general Japanese advance of "more than 100,000 men," aided by tanks, planes, and continued bombardments was "slowed down."

Destruction of bridges, mining of highways, and acres of barbed wire entanglements halted the Japanese assault.

Foreign military experts said they believed the Japanese will take a breathing spell to bring up heavy artillery with which to attempt a new drive toward Nanking, well to the rear of Chinese lines.

CHEST GOAL IS REACHED

Over the top! That wasn't a battle cry shouted today in Santa Ana. On the contrary, it was rousing shout of happiness as the Community Chest campaign went over the goal for the first time in 10 years.

Credit for putting the drive over the top was given to James Irvine today by President J. B. Tucker of the chest. Tucker said that Irvine, although already having made a substantial contribution, this morning agreed to give an additional $202 to pass the goal of $34,321.

The annual drive had brought the campaign to within about $1300 of the top. Workers dug in and determined to make the goal this year, and a number of large contributors were asked to increase their gifts. By including names of some subscribers who regularly give but who have been

BELGIUM'S LEADERS QUIT

BRUSSELS. (AP)—The government of Premier Paul Van Zeeland resigned tonight.

The premier went directly to the palace to tender his resignation to King Leopold.

The official announcement revealed that all the ministers of the cabinet decided to show their confidence in Van Zeeland's integrity by resigning with him. They also drafted a letter expressing their confidence in their resigning chief, who apparently decided to turn back to the role of private citizen for a finish fight to clear up political storms over administration of the national bank of which he once was vice governor.

Political enemies—chiefly the Fascist-Rexist party, precipitated a cabinet crisis during the late summer, alleging that Van Zeeland received improper bonus payments from the bank—an allegation which he refuted before parliament, whereupon he was given a vote of confidence.

Driver Dies in 200 Foot Leap

Violent death rode the Orange county highways again this weekend, abruptly ending a three-week vacation by striking a mysterious blow at a Long Beach motorist as he was driving along Santiago canyon road on a leisurely Sunday outing.

D. L. Robinson, 57, 4321 East Fifth street, Long Beach, suddenly slumped over the steering wheel as he was driving down a straight grade two miles east of Irvine park road early last night.

His wife, Mrs. Mary Robinson, 59, shook him and he lurched back into position, throwing the car out of control. It swerved to the edge of the road and plunged over the embankment, rolling 200 feet to the bottom of a steep grade.

Robinson was thrown out of the car halfway down. He died while being rushed to St. Joseph's hospital.

Mrs. Robinson miraculously escaped serious injury, though she was carried the full length of the fall. Suffering from shock and superficial cuts and bruises, she was confined in St. Joseph's hospital.

Robinson's body was taken to Winbigger mortuary, where arrangements for an inquest are pending. Coroner Earl Abbey to (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Italian Escapes From Prison Isle

PARIS. (AP)—The escape of the Italian Socialist, Giacomo Costa, and four companions from an Italian prison on the Island of Lampedusa in the Mediterranean was reported today by the newspaper Ce Soir in a dispatch from Tunis.

The newspaper said the group landed on the Tunisian coast after two days in an open boat without food. Costa, once a socialist deputy in Italy, had been imprisoned at Lampedusa since March, 1936.

MAY LIMIT CONGRESS TO FDR'S PLAN

Five-Point Program Action Is Urged

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Administration leaders may propose limiting legislation in the special session of congress to President Roosevelt's five-point program, informed persons said today.

This would require adoption of a resolution by the house and senate. Whether the leaders decide to go ahead with it may depend on sentiment among the rank and file of members.

The idea behind the proposal is that enactment of the administrative program might be completed in the six weeks' sessions beginning Nov. 15 if all other subjects were held over for the regular session in January.

FARM TOLD
The President's program embraces crop control, wage and hour regulations, government reorganization, regional planning and revision of the anti-trust laws.

The principal effect of limiting the session to these matters would be the displacement of the controversial anti-lynching bill from second place on the senate calendar. It probably also would postpone enactment of new taxes to pay for a crop control program.

The house passed the anti-lynching bill last summer, but the senate agreed to give it a position directly behind farm legislation whenever congress reconvened. Prolonged debate might tie up the senate for much of the special session.

FARM PROGRAM
The first business of the special session, if the legislation is drafted in time, will be considered of a broad farm program.

President Roosevelt recommended Saturday in a letter to the chairman of the senate and house agriculture committees that the system should be permanent and that the present soil conservation program be included.

In addition, he said, the legislation should safeguard farm incomes and soil fertility, provide for an ever-normal granary to store reserve food supplies, and provide for control of surplus crops while preserving export markets.

Stocks Rally After Drop

NEW YORK. (AP)—Stocks did a speedy right-about-face in today's market after an early retreat that put many leaders in new low ground for the past year or longer. Late net gains ranged from 1 to more than 9 points.

With U. S. Steel leading the early back-slide, losses ran to 5 or so at the opening. Selling was fast enough to put the ticker tape several minutes behind and appeared to be a carry-over from Saturday's break.

The shift to an upward reversal was accomplished in the briefest period witnessed in some time. In the space of an hour or less conspicuous losses and jumped into the climbing column and it was not long before advances were widely distributed. As in the initial decline the ticker tape again lagged.

Transfers were around $2,600,000 shares.

Hawaiian Prince Held for Slaying

HONOLULU. (AP)—A blood descendant of Hawaii's one-time rulers faced possible slaying charges today in connection with the death of a pretty half-white, half-Hawaiian woman who assertedly was his common-law wife.

David Kalakaua Kawanakoa, 33, grand-nephew of the late King David Kalakaua and son of the late Prince David Kawanakoa, was held for investigation, and Police Lieutenant John Troche said he might be charged with second degree murder or manslaughter.

The victim was Arvilla Kinsalea, 22, found dead in a Waikiki cottage by police. Her body was in a sitting position in a chair, wrapped in a blood-soaked sheet. An artery in her neck was severed and her face was lacerated. She had been dead some time before officers arrived.

The kitchen of the cottage, which the victim's sister said Kalakaua and Miss Kinsalea had shared for two and a half years, was a shambles. The floor was littered with broken dishes and the walls spotted with blood.

MOTHER AIDS MONTAGUE

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y. (AP)—The elderly, white-haired mother of Hollywood's John Montague told a jury today her son was at home in Syracuse, N. Y., the night he is accused of robbing a roadside house of $700 in 1936.

"He came in at midnight on Aug. 4 and went to bed," Mrs. Mary Moore testified, glancing at her son, known seven years ago as Laverne Moore.

Kin Hans's roadside was held up by four men at about 2 a. m. the night of Aug. 4, according to previous testimony.

Laverne left home the following morning, the mother said, unshakingly.

"He told me he was going to play golf or baseball, kissed me good-bye and went out," she said.

GOES TO HOLLYWOOD

That was the last she saw of him, the mother testified, until he was arrested and returned several months ago from Hollywood, where in recent years he had been an intimate friend of motion picture celebrities.

A sister, Mrs. Mary A. Allen, 27, said Laverne took her to work "around 8:15 a. m." The morning after the holdup, telling her he was going to play golf or baseball.

Mrs. Moore said a police detective and a state trooper came to her home on Aug. 10, 1936, four days after Laverne went away.

"The detective asked me if Laverne was home," she said. "I told them, 'no.' Then the trooper asked: 'He isn't home?' I repeated 'no.' Then the trooper said 'we'll take your word for it.'"

QUESTION SISTER

Prosecutor Thomas W. McDonald waived cross examination of Mrs. Moore, but directed a rapid fire of questions at the sister.

Once, Presiding Judge Harry E. Owen interrupted to ask:

"Was there any discussion in the family as to why Laverne should leave his place of residence so suddenly?"

"No," was the reply.

A second sister, Mrs. Madeline McGrath, corroborated her mother's testimony that Laverne slept at home the night of the robbery and that he took her sister to work the following morning.

She was also at home, Mrs. McGrath said, when the police officers came on Sunday, Aug. 10.

Mrs. Allen, on cross examination, was shown an automobile registration license issued to Matthew W. Moore, her father, purportedly found in a wrecked car in which two of the four bandits were making a getaway.

"Is this your father's handwriting?" Prosecutor McDonald asked.

"It looks very much like it," she said.

Eleven Bullets Bring Death to Gambling Czar

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Gangster guns abruptly ended today the "borrowed time" on which George (Les) Bruneman, night club operator and gambler, had been living.

They fired 11 shots into his body in a shanty beer parlor shortly after midnight, and then killed Frank Greuzard, an innocent bystander, who followed them to the door.

Alice Ingram, 24, pretty blonde nurse who sat at his bedside and aided in his recovery from a similar fusillade last July, was wounded twice by bullets that passed through Bruneman. Her condition was not critical.

Witnesses told police there were four in the party that made successful the second attempt in four months on the mild-mannered Bruneman's life, but only one shot him as he sat with Miss Ingram, her 21-year-old sister Mary, and Bob Pelden, 27.

It was only a few weeks ago that Bruneman, after his recovery from the shooting on the boardwalk in Redondo Beach July 20, told Detective Lieut. Warren Hudson, "I'm living on borrowed time. I've got about six weeks more. They'll get me the next time. They won't send the same pair, though. They'll send experts after me the next time."

GUARD GAMBLER
Strong armed men guarded the hospital after that shooting and Bruneman, always refusing to name his assailants or help the police in establishing a motive, recovered from the two wounds in his body.

But this morning death came without warning to him. He never had a chance to reach for the pistols he carried in a coat pocket and in his belt.

Mrs. Elaine Huddle, who with her husband owns "The Roost" where the slaying took place, graphically described how a small sedan without license plates swept up in front of the drug barroom out of the deep early morning fog.

GUNS IN EACH HAND
"I saw three men get out," she told police, "while a fourth remained at the wheel. Two of the men walked toward the door. One of them stopped at the entrance. The other walked into the place. Both men had automatic guns in each hand."

"The man at the door waved his guns at us—told us to keep quiet."

"The fourth man walked directly over to Bruneman's table and started shooting. The killer stood over him and fired four more shots into his head."

"People were screaming. Through the fog of tobacco smoke and the smoke from the shots I

300 Killed in Haiti Rioting

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti. (AP)—Haitian authorities acted today to prevent possible reprisals against Dominicans in Port-Au-Prince and Cap-Haitien.

Reliable reports said at least 300 persons were killed and as many more wounded in fighting on the frontier between Haiti and the Dominican republic 10 days ago.

Most of the casualties were Haitians whose heavy emigration into the Dominican republic was said to have stirred resentment across the border.

AIR RAID ON COSTA MESA

By BRADEN FINCH

If you want to sample the horrors of aerial warfare, drive out to Costa Mesa some time when one of those hell-diving, barrel-rolling pilots is testing out a fancy new plane above 75 feet off the ground.

Cows are jumping over fences, goats are getting tangled up in their chains, chickens are flying off the roost and refusing to lay for three days and the irate populace is yelling over the telephone for the sheriff. Shanghai seems tame by comparison.

About two years ago a low-flying plane crashed into a house in Costa Mesa. Fortunately no one—in the plane or in the house—was killed. Wonder why Department of Commerce officials don't put a stop to this dangerous and disturbing practice?

LEWIS-GREEN LABOR MEETING OPENS QUIETLY IN WASHINGTON

RULES FOR SESSION ARE DISCUSSED

CIO-AFL Parley for Union Move Starts

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The first session of the American Federation of Labor-CIO peace conference recessed today with preliminaries still being discussed. The meeting was to be resumed this afternoon.

George H. Harrison, chairman of the A. F. of L. committee, said the committees had spent the morning talking about the procedure to be followed in the conference.

Philip Murray, chairman of the CIO committee, stood at Harrison's side while he talked to reporters and nodded assent.

The conference was slated to resume at 2 p. m., after each side had held a caucus.

"The morning conference was confined to the rules," Murray added to Harrison's statement.

Harrison said that "maybe we will have some news this afternoon."

The size of the conference was understood to be the first obstacle in the way of peace between the warring labor factions.

The A. F. of L. sent a three-man committee, the CIO sent 10. The CIO insisted that the committees be enlarged. The A. F. of L. contended the conference could accomplish more with a smaller group around the table.

SCOTTSBORO CASE UPHELD

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Haywood Patterson, one of the nine negroes involved in the famous Scottsboro case, lost in the supreme court today in an effort to escape a 75-year prison sentence imposed by Alabama courts for an alleged attack on a white woman.

The high tribunal twice had saved the negro from the death penalty.

In announcing denial of Patterson's petition, the court said Justice Black "took no part in the consideration and decision of this application."

That removed any possibility of a challenge of Black's position on the bench on the ground that he was a former member of the Ku Klux Klan.

Mrs. George Shippe Gets O. E. S. Honor

Appointment of Mrs. George Shippe, past worthy matron of Santa Ana chapter of the Order of Eastern Star, as deputy grand matron of the 57th district, was announced today by Mrs. Isobel Warner, newly elected grand worthy matron of the state of California.

Mrs. Shippe will go to Los Angeles tomorrow to attend a school of instruction in her new duties.

The Santa Ana was honored following a state O. E. S. convention held last week at the Ambassador hotel, Los Angeles. In attendance at the convocation from Santa Ana chapter were Betty Gowdy, Sue Henry, Pearl Lyan, Ellen Smith, Winnie Dean, William Dean, Flora Bruns, Florence Wright, Hattie Basler, Jennie Shippe and George Shippe.

Woman Flyer Sets New Air Mark

LONDON, (AP)—Jean Batten, 26-year-old New Zealand woman flyer, rested today after her record breaking flight from Australia to England and an enthusiastic welcome.

Her time from Darwin, Australia, to Lympne, England, was five days, 18 hours and 15 minutes, which clipped 14 hours and 10 minutes from the record set by Jim Broadbent last May.

Miss Batten was so exhausted when she landed at Croydon airport from Lympne last night that she asked policemen to carry her through the crowd.

Les Bruneman, L. A. Gambler Falls Before Gangster Guns

BYSTANDER SHOT

Then it was that Greuzard, who has been employed as her chauffeur, started toward the door.

"For God's sake don't go out there," Mrs. Huddle told police she screamed. She said her husband yelled:

"Don't be a fool Frank, come back!"

Three shots followed, and Greuzard toppled to the sidewalk in front of the place as the automobile roared away.

Miss Ingram, who said she first met Bruneman when his physician, Dr. Joseph Zeiger, assigned her to be his nurse after the first shooting, said she had spent the day with him and that they had stopped at The Roost for a glass of beer and to pick up her sister Mary.

She said Bruneman never had been there before.

SEEK 3 MEN

Capt. Bert Wallis of the police immediately sent out a call to pick up three men whom he declined to identify. He also summoned a number of men he called "gambling big shots" for questioning.

Capt. Wallis' immediate investigation was based on the supposition Bruneman was the victim of a private war among gambling interests.

His costly club in Redondo Beach was closed shortly after the shooting, but was not the bookmaking establishments in the seaside resort, with which his name was associated, likewise were shut down.

Capt. Wallis expressed the belief the killers had been shadowing Bruneman for several days.

SHADOW VICTIM

Our investigation so far indicates that one man kept waiting while Bruneman and Miss Ingram were in the Montmartre in Hollywood (where they stopped before going to The Roost).

"When they got to The Roost he immediately saw the place would be ideal for the shooting."

The cafe is isolated at the top of a long grade on Temple street and nearby are side streets that offered a quick getaway.

"So it is possible that the shadow telephoned to his companions during the 45-minute interval Bruneman was in the place alive—and they came over to perform their deadly job."

Police said the stories of the witnesses at the shooting convinced them the two who stepped into the beer parlor this morning were not the same two that attempted to kill Bruneman last July.

CHANGE IN PLANS BRINGS GUN DEATH

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Friends of Les Bruneman, one-time Phoenix bookmaker, said today a "sudden change in plans" caused him to leave a comparatively safe retreat here last week for Los Angeles where he knew gangster guns awaited him.

He came here to recuperate from a previous encounter with reputedly hired killers at Redondo Beach last July 20.

"They'll get me if I go back to the coast," friends quoted him as saying. "I am going to the mountains for a rest."

But, a "sudden change in plans" sent him scurrying back to Los Angeles—and death.

poo was warned by Chinese that mines have been placed to prevent additional Japanese landing operations. Traffic was stopped from the Ford assembly plant, the Dollar Line wharves and numerous plants on the Pootung side of the river.

PROTEST TO JAPAN

British Vice Admiral Sir Charles Little protested against the Japanese warplane incident to Japanese Vice Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa, and Herbert Phillips, British consul general, protested to Japanese Consul General Suemasa Okamoto. The Japanese said a court of inquiry would meet to determine responsibility and possibly punish the pilot.

United States Consul General Clarence E. Gauss lodged a protest with the Japanese.

The affair, which brought the death of Rifleman W. McGowan of the Royal Ulster Rifles, was described by British army authorities as a "deliberate attack."

British soldiers returned the Japanese pilot's fire with automatic rifles.

ATTACK 'MISTAKE'

Japanese naval officials said the airplane fired on a British ship in position along Kewick road under the mistaken impression that it was a Chinese post. He swooped low over the road five times, spraying the road with machine gun bullets.

The Americans who with others were seeking recreation on the road were: N. F. Allman, Rocky Mount, Va.; Richard Harris, Rochester, N. Y.; H. D. Rodger, formerly of Hammond, N. Y.; R. K. Smith, Montclair, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sprague, Cleveland, Ohio, and Miss Peggy Arnold, New London, Conn.

Most of the foreigners were on horseback.

day indicated the accident may have been caused by a sudden heart attack, although death itself apparently resulted from crash injuries.

A head-on sideswipe resulted when Marvin Hoberg, 26, Chico, and William H. Troxel, 25, Los Angeles, apparently both followed the same white line in the fog on Carbon canyon road early Sunday. Injured were Marjorie Fletcher, 21, Ontario, passenger in Hoberg's car, and Marjorie Gilmartin, 23, Los Angeles, riding with Troxel.

PEDESTRIAN INJURED

C. P. Dwyer, New York City, and Elden E. Moore, Long Beach newspaper employes, collided near Dana Point, injuring an unidentified companion of Dwyer. Dwyer assertedly was arrested on a reckless driving count.

Thomas Colburn, Maple avenue, Santa Ana, was struck while walking across Orange avenue in Santa Ana late yesterday. Robert Bacon Schilling, Jr., 27, 915 Orange avenue, was driving the car, and the elderly pedestrian, he told police.

Mrs. Helen Woodward, 117 North Lyon street, was slightly hurt when her husband, Vernon Woodward, 28, and S. Sasine, 54, El Toro, collided at Fourth and Maple streets in Santa Ana late last night.

Nine other Orange county motorists and passengers were injured in the following week-end accidents:

MOTORCYCLE CRASH

A car driven by Mrs. Sarah Jane Rutledge, 69, Stanton, and a motorcycle ridden by Charles E. Toombs, 31, Los Angeles, collided at Huntington Beach boulevard and Chapman avenue Saturday afternoon, injuring Toombs, who was knocked from his motorcycle as the car ran over the vehicle.

When Miss Thomas assertedly attempted to pass Lopez, then swerved back into line when a car approached from the other direction. Injured were Miss Thomas and Lopez' eight-year-old daughter, Henrietta. Both were given first aid.

Arthur Adams, 43, San Pedro, struck a trailer being hauled by William Sherman Babb, 72, Santa Ana, when Babb assertedly failed to stop at a boulevard sign. The trailer was smashed and Adams was slightly hurt.

PLANE BOMBS BRITISH FREIGHTER

PARIS, (AP)—A seaplane of unidentified nationality today bombed a French submarine chaser off the Spanish island of Minorca in the Mediterranean, setting the vessel afire.

The craft also was machine gunned.

Officials of Airfrance, commercial aviation company which had had use of the port, said it hastened at once to its regular station in the port of Fornells, permitting the crew to land. The fire, however, they reported, was uncontrollable.

The attacking plane, Airfrance officials said, was marked with a Maltese cross.

First reports said all members of the crew were safe although the vessel, known as No. 91, was struck squarely by a bomb.

The submarine chaser had been put at the disposal of Airfrance by the navy ministry.

According to navy records the vessel carried a crew of 26. She was built in the United States during the World war for the American navy, but the contracts were transferred to France. She was 105 feet long, displacing 77 tons.

BOMBED FREIGHTER SINKS AT SEA

PERPIGNAN, France. (AP)—French warships keeping watch on the freighter Oued Melah, bombed yesterday by an unidentified airplane in the Mediterranean, reported today that the ship disappeared in a rough sea during the night.

The ship, which had been abandoned and was drifting in the Mediterranean shipping lane east of Barcelona, Spain, was believed to have sunk.

Four Deer Bagged By Local Hunters

A party of 10 Orange county sportsmen—including Police Chief Floyd Howard, John Martin, Dick Bird and Captain J. Verne of Santa Ana—returned from a vacation hunting trip above St. George Saturday, triumphantly displaying four deer and quantities of smaller game. The party left Santa Ana last weekend.

Last big fire was just north of Trabuco two years ago. It was whipped in a little over a day, although it burned several hundred acres.

driven by Harry E. Meyer, 16, 182 South Citron street, Orange, ran off the El Modena grade at midnight Saturday and overturned in a ditch.

Football And Cider Served To Golfing Quartet

Niblicks flashed through the air. "Rah, rah rah! Trojans!" yelled the crowd. The golf ball was a streak of white, zooming toward the green. "California! Rah, rah rah!" shouted the frenzied football fans.

All of which seems a little crazy. But it isn't mixed up, although golf and football came closer to mingling on the Santa Ana Country club course Saturday afternoon than ever before.

BIG PROBLEM

It all started when a foursome entered in a tournament at the country club were suddenly confounded and dismayed when they realized they couldn't play in the golf tournament and still hear the great U. S. C.-California football game at Berkeley.

So Wayne Harrison, Riley Huber, Stanley Anderson and Dr. Lawrence Cameron put their heads together with most amazing results. They rigged up a radio set in a little wagon, and employed a caddy to pull the contraption after them as they played their golf.

Harrison waited until his young son wasn't looking, and annexed his little red wagon. An automobile radio, with antenna and everything, was installed and taken out to the golf course. It worked like a charm, and golfers from all over the course swarmed toward the portable broadcasting outfit to see how the big game was going.

The bright golfers also figured out that they might as well carry their own refreshments along, and so they did. They installed a jug of cider (vintage unknown) and carted along a flock of doughnuts.

On the back of the wagon they hung a sign, "Country Club Service." Being hospitable folks, they served refreshments to other golfers whom they encountered.

DUBBED HIS SHOTS

When the golf match was over, it was found that the combination of Harrison and Cameron had dropped the match to the Huber-Anderson team. But there was a reason. Harrison is a U. S. C. man. And when California ripped the Trojan line open time after time, he swore fervently if quietly. And dubbed his shots. Anderson, on the other hand, is a California man, and the touchdowns scored by his school gave his game zest and brilliance.

But they had a swell time, and heard the football game, even if they all did play in the gay '90's!

The improvement work on that popular thoroughfare will be completed, and the Breakfast club is going to celebrate, but they want an audience. I think I'll go down if Hunter asks me to. He carries a gun. It is rather a convincing invitation.

The market slumped about five dollars last Saturday, so an observer tells me, and that didn't mean anything as I did not have five dollars. Market speculations are sort of an intricacy to me. I've tried to analyze the participation, and have come to the conclusion that if you are in the market and make money you are a gambler, and if you lose it you are a bum.

'MYSTERY' PLANE IRKS COSTA MESA

Low-flying airplanes are more than a nose nuisance to Costa Mesans. They are a financial hazard.

Chicken and goat keepers there were up in arms today, because airplanes startle the livestock worse than they do human beings. The chickens don't lay so well and the goats don't produce so much milk.

A big silver monoplane, zooming low over Costa Mesa, brought a hatful of complaints to the sheriff's office Saturday afternoon, and Sheriff Logan Jackson said he would report the incident to the department of commerce.

Residents said the plane was flying at an altitude of between 100 and 200 feet. It was unmarked, they said, except for a red square on the bottom of each wing.

S. A. MERCHANTS TO SPONSOR FEDERAL MUSIC PROJECT

TO KEEP BIG PAYROLL IN SANTA ANA

Musicians Annually Get $72,000

Merchants in Santa Ana will sponsor the Federal Music project in this city for the season of 1937-38, it was announced today by the Federal Music project advisory committee, composed of Fred Newcomb, Carl Stein and L. L. Hurst.

Three major reasons why the merchants are sponsoring the project were outlined by the committee. These reasons are as follows:

1. The project represents a payroll in Orange county of $6000 per month or $72,000 a year. Most of this money is spent in the immediate vicinity of Santa Ana.

2. The continuance of the project in this locality depends very largely upon public support.

3. The federal appropriation to the project for the fiscal year, July 1, 1937 to June 30, 1938, has been made, and the continuance of the project in Santa Ana would mean that a large part of the $72,000 would be spent elsewhere.

On the evening of Nov. 4, the symphony orchestra of the project will present its first concert of the season in the high school auditorium.

POPULAR PROGRAM

A popular program has been selected which will include the "New World Symphony" by Dvorak, "The Phedre Overture" by Messenet, and a group of short numbers. The Federal Music project chorus also will be presented in a group of numbers with orchestral accompaniment.

"If you want Santa Ana to receive her share of the federal money," committee men said today, "you should at least be willing to see that the public performances of the Federal Music project are well attended."

PROFESSIONAL

"The musicians on the project are professional and the musical standards of its performances are very high. The concerts given by the project in Santa Ana are a credit to the community, and any person who enjoys good music can attend the concerts with full assurance that his musical tastes will be satisfied."

"You owe it to yourself as a music lover to enjoy these musical offerings. You owe it to yourself as a business man to support the project."

8 p. m. Tuesday, funeral arrangements will be announced later.

ROLAND—Mrs. Carrie Josephine Roland, 65, died Saturday evening at her home, 304 Main street, Balboa. MRS. LAURA A. MOYE DIES SUNDAY

A pioneer resident of Santa Ana and a native of California, Mrs. Laura A. Moye, 76, died at her home, 510 East First street, Sunday afternoon after an extended illness.

She was born in Visalia, in 1861, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Hartley, pioneer settlers of Tulare county. She spent her childhood days in Visalia, and after her marriage to A. L. Moye in 1882 moved to Santa Ana to make her home.

Mrs. Moye lived in her home on East First street continuously for more than 54 years. She was the mother of Henry H. Moye, for many years a prominent Santa Ana business man before his death in 1923, and the late Lawrence A. Moye, former county surveyor for Tulare county.

Survivors include her brother, Charles W. Hartley; three grandchildren, James A. Moye, Lawrence Henry Moye, and Mrs. Laura Moye Harrison of Visalia; a niece, Mrs. Merle B. Johnson of Los Angeles, and a foster-daughter, Mrs. William Eugene Hays of San Marino.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Smith and Tuthill funeral home at 10 a. m. Wednesday, with burial at Visalia.

MASON TO TALK ON DEMOCRACY

Tonight at the Little Theater in the Santa Ana High school Dr. John Brown Mason will present the last in the series of four discussions on "International Danger Spots."

Tonight's discussion is titled, "The Challenge of Democracy," and countries of the world in the present chaotic world relations.

Plans are under way to continue these meetings for several weeks longer. Announcement of the speakers and subjects will be made in a few days.

Meetings start promptly at 7:30. During the last half of the period questions and comment from the audience are expected. Always there are more questions than can be answered in the allotted time.

JOHN S. PERRY DIES IN MINN.

News of the death of John S. Perry, former Orange county purchasing agent, was received by his friends here today.

Mrs. Perry died in St. Mary's hospital, Rochester, Minn., following an extended illness.

He served as purchasing agent for Orange county for a number of years, being succeeded by Dr. F. W. Slabaugh. He had many friends among old timers in the county, and always made an annual trip to Santa Ana from Butte, Mont., where he moved from here.

State Senator Held as Spy

MOSCOW, (AP)—State Senator John Phillips of Banning, Calif., was on his way home today after being released from custody at Kiev where he was arrested for using a camera.

Friends said Phillips told them he was arrested Oct. 20 when a bystander saw him photographing apartment houses and called a policeman. Phillips said he was questioned at headquarters and was detained less than an hour.

Several similar cases have been reported in recent months since the Russian spy-hunt was intensified.

Mrs. C. J. Roland Dies at Balboa

Mrs. Carrie Josephine Roland, 65, wife of Michael Roland, Balboa businessman, died at her home, 304 Main street, Balboa, Saturday evening.

She also is survived by a brother, Harry Yost, Florida, and a sister, Cora McDonald, Pennsylvania. Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow from the Dixon chapel at Costa Mesa with the Rev. J. W. Hatter of Santa Ana officiating.

SHEARING THE GOOD THINGS OF LIFE

By PROF. C. DE CORN

Oscar McBloop, in the Monthly Twerp, says the following stuff: With these poor individuals getting their wages cut, it means that other individuals will get less wages also."

We beg to differ from Mr. McBloop. It is an utter fallacy, although widely believed by those of us who have not perused the works said things 160 years ago that are not yet understandable to the common herd, that lowering of wages for one man lowers the wages of all.

If, for instance, the man was getting $5 a day but gets cut to $4 because of something or other. The employer then has $1 left which he did not have before. He might invest that in something which would bear interest or dividends, like a lady dog.

That, in the long run, if the dog were able to accomplish a long run, would result in more dogs—greater wealth, as plain as the dog in the doghouse, or in the garbage can. The price of dogs would be lowered, because the supply would be greater.

That would increase rapidly, especially if the dog were to behave like the guinea pig, although Adam Smith is not quite clear on this question. Think of all those dogs! Very soon there would be two dogs in every garage, and every worker could afford a dog, where before he possibly had none, or only a few.

Is this not prosperity, or are we going to the dogs, no doubt? (Tomorrow: "My Soak the Poor Taxation Plan.")

$2000 LOOT FOUND IN H. B. TRAILER

Chief of Police Grant, on instructions from Long Beach police, investigated the trailer home of Charles W. Baker Saturday, where he found $2000 worth of stolen goods. Baker was captured, while allegedly armed, by Long Beach police Friday night on the roof of the Posten Hardware company there.

In the investigation of the trailer home at a local auto park Grant and his men claimed they found silverware stolen from the Rev. R. N. Merrill, pastor of the First Methodist church in Long Beach, in a safe burglary at the church, a large amount of clothing and shoes taken from the Montgomery Ward store in Huntington Park, and property taken from Hamilton Junior High school in Long Beach. Among all this property found, Chief Grant found a number of Huntington Beach High school G. A. A. pins and other articles which he claims will clear up the burglary at the high school here three weeks ago.

Baker, who admitted having a prison record, was booked in Long Beach, where he will be charged with several counts of burglary and with carrying concealed weapons.

Fifteen times as many points as the opposition were scored by Santa Ana's three football teams over the week-end. Seldom—if ever—have they clicked so perfectly at the same time. Each scored four or more touchdowns in piling up 90 points to the other side's 6.

Just in case you've forgotten, this is how they smothered the opposition:
Saints 32, Redlands 0 (sophomores).
Saints 27, Redlands 6 (varsity).
Dons 31, Glendale 0 (jaysce).

The situation doesn't look so rosy this Friday, however. They cannot expect to duplicate that scoring when the Saints entertain Riverside's Bears at Poly field and the Dons travel to Pomona, J. C. The Saint sophomores perform at Riverside Thursday afternoon.

Riverside High was knocked out of the Citrus Belt league running in a 7-0 defeat by the Chaffey eleven which lost to Santa Ana, 7-6. But Riverside outgained the Tigers, 190 yards to 98 from scrimmage, and 10 first downs to 4. The Bears will be tough for the Saints here Friday.

Pomona Jaycee is unbeaten after three starts in the Eastern conference, and will furnish Bill Cook's Dons with one of their sternest tests at Pomona Friday night.

Read what a Riverside reporter wrote following Pomona's 6 to 0 victory over Riverside last week: "Outplayed and outsmarted practically all the way. Riverside played with dynamite at Pomona to receipt for a surprise 6-0 defeat before 4500 spectators."

"Advised as the strongest Pomona team in history, Joe Bonnet's Red Raiders, with Johnny Casey and Bud Gray as their ball packing and throwing axes, lived up to advance notices with an impregnable forward wall that prevented Riverside from even threatening to score.

Seldom has a Riverside team been outclassed as badly as Coach Jesse Mortensen's gang at Pomona. At no time were the Tigers inside the Pomona 45. They made only two first downs from running plays, two more from passes and two from penalties while Pomona picked up 10 first downs and more than 300 yards from passes and runs."

That spells trouble for the Dons.

SANTA CLARA NIPS LOYOLA ELEVEN, 7-0

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Loyola's hapless Lions began another "Blue Monday" on the football practice field today, following defeat by Santa Clara's unbeaten Broncos. Edged out already this season by Hardin-Simmons and St. Mary's, the Lions saw another game go glimmering yesterday when Bill Gunther, Bronco fullback, intercepted a Loyola pass and ran half the distance of the field to a touchdown.

The successful try for extra point made the score 7 to 0, with less than a quarter left to play. A clipping penalty soon gave Loyola the ball deep in Santa Clara territory, but the threat ended when "King" Fisher of the Broncos snared Jack Lyons' pass.

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Although home town fans were gloomy today, the Bruins of U. C. L. A. weren't convinced that their chances are hopeless against the Bears of California here next Saturday.

Beaten 3 to 0 by Washington State Saturday, the Bruins came out of the game with no serious injuries except to their pride.

Opposing California, they expect to present an improved line, but it is doubtful whether U. C. L. A. field generalship and ball handling are better than at the start of the season, Bruin rosters admit.

GULDAHL LANDS MIAMI POST

NEW YORK. (AP)—Ralph Gulda, United States Open golf champion, has been signed to head the professional staff at the Miami-Biltmore Country club at Miami for the 1937-38 winter season, local officers of the club announced today. Denny Shute, the United States P. G. A. champion, new in South America, was signed some weeks ago. It will be the fourth year in succession that the American Open and P. G. A. champions have been members of the Miami-Biltmore club staff.

Twenty-one Major Grid Teams Remain Unbeaten

ELEVEN FALL IN WEEK-END CONTESTS

California, Santa Clara Lead Coast At Halfway Mark

By HERBERT W. BARKER

NEW YORK. (AP)—Eleven major colleges buried their hopes for an unbeaten football season with appropriate ceremonies today. Twenty-one others gratefully postponed the obsequies for at least another week.

The white-haired guy who wields the football scythe unceremoniously lopped Wisconsin, Northwestern, Tulane, Louisiana State, Texas Aggies, Harvard, Navy, Syracuse, Boston College, George Washington and Rutgers off the undefeated slate last Saturday, not a bad day's work for an old fellow.

THE HONOR ROLL

Today, with the season barely past the halfway mark, the unbeaten list had dwindled to these teams:

East—Dartmouth, Holy Cross, Lafayette, Yale, Pitt (tied), Fordham (tied), Villanova (tied), Temple (tied twice).
South—Vanderbilt, Alabama, Auburn (tied twice), Duke (tied), North Carolina (tied).
Middle West—Detroit, Nebraska (tied).

Southwest—Baylor.
Far West—California, Santa Clara.
Rocky Mountain—Colorado, Western State, Gunnison, Montana.

Another reduction in the list is certain this week with the following programs on tap:
East—Dartmouth against Yale at New Haven in a clash of undefeated, untied elevens. Yale maintained its perfect record with a 9-0 conquest of Cornell.

Pitt, paced to a 21-0 victory over Wisconsin by Marshall Gooding and Sophomore Dick Cassiano, tackles its intra-city rival, Carnegie Tech. Holy Cross, hard pressed to win from Western Maryland, 6-0, plays Temple, while Lafayette, upset conqueror of New York university, 13-0, meets Franklin and Marshall.

Villanova, after an easy 21-0 triumph over Bucknell, invades the Middle West for a joust with powerful Detroit, whose Titans removed Boston college from the unbeaten list, 14-0. Fordham's Rams, who pulled their game with Texas Christian out of the fire in the last two minutes of play, 7-6, travel south to face North Carolina, victor, 13-0, over Tulane.

Harvard faces Princeton, which finally pushed over stubborn Rutgers, 6-0. Columbia, victim of a 7-6 upset by Browns' mauled Bears, invades Ithaca to play Cornell. Navy, beaten 9-7 by Notre Dame's rousing last-quarter rally, meets Penn, held to a scoreless draw by Georgetown when a substitute ran out on the field in the closing minutes and nullified a successful Quaker field goal attempt.

South—Vanderbilt's stirring 7-6 victory over Louisiana State, featuring an iron line that played the entire game, sent the Commodores into a tie with Alabama for the Southeastern conference lead, with Auburn, 21-0 victor over Georgia Tech, just behind. Vanderbilt meets Georgia Tech this week, while Alabama is playing Kentucky. Auburn travels to Texas to play Rice of the Southwest conference.

Duke and Citadel will seek to catch up with Virginia Military in the Southern conference standings. Duke seeks its third successive conference victory against Washington and Lee, beaten last week, 19-7, by Virginia Tech. No. 3 against South Carolina, whipped, 34-6, by Clemson.

NOTRE DAME-MINNESOTA

Middle West—The big game of the week sends Notre Dame against Minnesota, idle last week. Wisconsin, tied with Minnesota and Ohio State for the Big Ten championship, plays Northwestern, outpointed, 7-0, by Ohio State. Chicago plays host to powerful Ohio State. Michigan, 7-6 victor over Iowa, tackles Illinois, while Iowa is meeting Purdue. Indiana invades Lincoln for a shot at Nebraska's Cornhuskers.

Missouri, beaten by Nebraska, 7-0, meets Iowa State and Oklahoma, surprisingly tripped by Kansas, 6-3, on the final play of the game, faces Kansas State in Big Six conference competition. Kansas, the leader, plays Michigan State, which whipped Marquette, 21-7. Marquette plays Santa Clara at Chicago.

Southwest—Baylor, which proved its right to the Southwest conference lead by whipping Texas Aggies, 13-0, plays Texas Christian in another exacting conference test. Texas, upset by Rice, 14-7, tackles Southern Methodist, beaten, 13-0, by Arkansas. Texas Aggies and Arkansas are paired in the remaining conference fray.

An average of 15,214,366 boys and girls were in school each day of the 1933-34 term in 41 of the 48 states.

Y.M.C.A. Basketball Teams Paired in Two Games Tonight

There will be an attractive doubleheader in Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. league basketball tonight. At 7:15 o'clock on the Church and Sycamore street hardwood, the Southern Methodists will play the Barr Lumber company. At 8:30, Southern Counties Gas battles the Advent Christians.

Wednesday's games: 7 o'clock—Trescow Products vs. Excelsior; 8 o'clock—Al's Lock and Key shop vs. Patterson Dairy; 9 o'clock—Wilson's Dairy vs. Penhall Brothers of Westminster.
Thursday's game: 7:15—Montgomery Ward vs. Church of Brethren.

GRID REFORM SLATED AT PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH. (AP)—The University of Pittsburgh, whose football teams have made four Rose Bowl appearances in the past decade, apparently decided to reduce any unusual emphasis on athletics without consulting its veteran football coach, Dr. John Bain Sutherland.

"All I know concerning the policy shift at Pitt is what I have seen in the newspapers," was the comment made by Sutherland, who has been in charge of the school's gridiron teams for the past 13 years.

"I have not been consulted at all thus far," he went on. "However, you can make it emphatic that whatever course the athletic council takes for the football squad, I will follow to the best of my ability, now and in the future just as I have in the past."

Announcement that Pitt inaugurated a program of athletic reform and strict amateurism effective August 1, came Sunday night from Athletic Director James (Whitey) Hagan, one-time roommate of all-America Gibby Welch and himself a halfback a decade ago with the Panthers.

Hagen was named to his post last year as a result of a feud between Dr. Sutherland and W. Don Harrison, which led to Harrison's resignation.

Hagen said, in making announcement: "The fact that a boy is an athlete should not be held against him if he needs assistance in getting a college education. But no boy should ever be given the idea he is being paid to play football."

"We realize the importance of football and this isn't an attempt to discourage it. What we are trying to do is to bring it into a proper plane with other college educational activities."

The new policy states intercollegiate athletics should be conducted always on a "strictly amateur basis" without special grants to students, made solely because of athletic ability, although reserving right to secure employment for students with such ability on the same basis as help is given other students.

It also provides for a schedule not exceeding nine games a season, all with major opponents, with the season opening the first Saturday in October.

GOLF HONORS SHARED IN 17 EVENTS AT COUNTRY CLUB

Seventeen different kinds of competition resulted in spirited golf play at the Santa Ana Country club Saturday in a gigantic tournament conducted by the club professional, Roy Renwick.

Jack Robertson of Huntington Beach posted a 73 for low gross, and Paul Hall, 79-15-64, was good for low net. The complete results: Low gross—Jack Robertson, 73; Earl Wilson, 78.

Low net—Paul Hall, 79-15-64; A. May, 79-13-65; A. W. Metzger, 87-20-57.

First nine holes (low net)—Guy Gilbert, 31; R. O. Winkler, 32. Second nine holes (low net)—C. W. Harrison, 33; C. P. Boyer, 34. Blind nine holes—J. W. Beach, 26; E. Steffensen, 28.

DONS TRAVEL TO POMONA; SAINTS HOME

Riverside Preps at H. S. Field Friday; Jaycee in Crucial

Headlining a fancy week-end menu for football fans in the Eastern J. C. conference, Santa Ana's Dons step out into fast company again Friday night at Pomona. The early season "dark horses," who have never been given more than an outside chance to lead the pack, have developed into a menace to the pennant aspirations of both the Dons and San Bernardino's Indians. Pomona now boasts the only perfect record in the standings with three wins against no losses.

If the Bill Cook-Blanchard Beatty machine is turned back, then nothing should stop Joe Bonnet's eleven from taking San Pedro next week and march on a clear road to the title.

However, the Dons do not intend to let any grass grow under their feet this week, with Cook ready to send his cohorts through four tough drills enlarging on their offensive tactics which they shot in their 31-0 victory over Glendale Friday night. One can look for more laterals and plenty of passes mixed in with a heavy running attack which Cook hopes will wear down the Pomona menaces as they did last year, 26-0.

Teaming a pair of flashy backs in the persons of Co-Capt. Johnny Casey, all-conference fullback and century dash man, and right halfback Ed Casey, the Raiders with a fast line in front of them may have enough to turn last year's rout into a Pomona victory. A loss would virtually eliminate either team from further flag consideration. A tie would further complicate the pennant scramble.

SAINTS PLAY FINAL HOME GAME FRIDAY

With high spirits that only a clean slate can bring, Santa Ana's Saints settled down to hard practice at Poly field today for a third start in Citrus Belt league football with Riverside's Bears here Friday afternoon.

It will be the last home appearance of Coach Bill Foote's preps, who wind up their league campaign at Pomona Nov. 5 and at San Bernardino Nov. 19. In between, they play a traditional league game at Fullerton Nov. 11.

Behind them the Saints have victories over Chaffey, 7-6, and Redlands, 27-6.

"Redlands did not offer as much competition as I expected, and I was disappointed that we didn't begin to click better in the first half," Foote said. He was very much impressed by some of the reserves in the second half, notably Eugene Mulvihill, Wayne Piper and Harry Ashen.

The passing of Bill Collins, first-string halfback, also came in from much praise from the coaching staff.

Thirty-Eight Major, Minor Elevens Protect Records

NEW YORK. (AP)—Showing surprising tenacity, 38 large and small college football teams throughout the nation remained on the select list of the undefeated and untied today while only 15 were removed from last week's list of 53.

Four of them took the easy way, skipping a half of the gridiron wars, but the rest, paced by some redoubtable midgets, San Jose State of California and Northeast Louisiana State university, played and won over the week-end.

Six of the survivors were able to add un-scored-on to their records—Arkansas Teachers, Western Kentucky Teachers, Hardin-Simmons of Texas, Southeastern Missouri Teachers of Cape Girardeau, San Diego (Cal.) State and last but not least, Lafayette, Western State boasted an uncrossed goal line with only three points for its opposition.

DORY DETTON VS. COLEMAN AT 101 CLUB

Ladies' Free Night Program Features 175-Pounders Here

The speed demons of the mat—light-heavyweights and middleweights—hold the center of interest for the first time in the history of Orange County Athletic club wrestling tonight when an all-star card of four-bouts bring together 160 and 175-pound grapplers.

The show is topped by two advertised "world championship" matches with Bobby Coleman and Dory Detton hooking up in a three-falls-to-a-finish battle for the recognized world middleweight title, and Champion Joe Parelli of the light-heavyweight division meeting Dynamite Dunn in a three-fall, 45-minute encounter.

Ladies will be admitted free to any section of the arena when accompanied by an escort paying the regular admission price. For the first time in months the ladies' free night will be in effect.

Claimant to the middleweight

TONIGHT'S PROGRAM

Bobby Coleman vs. Dory Detton, best two out of three falls, to a finish. For recognized middleweight championship.
Dynamite Dunn vs. Joe Parelli, best two out of three falls, 45-minute time limit. For recognized light-heavyweight title.
Young Stecher vs. Juan Del Rio, one fall to a finish.
"Iron Mike" Works vs. Pat McGill, one fall, 30 minutes.

title for the past year, Coleman won the championship of the state of Texas recently, strengthening his claim to the world championship as recognized by the states of California, Illinois, New York, Pennsylvania and Missouri.

Detton, brother of Dean Detton, former world champion, looms as Coleman's most dangerous challenger. Tonight's finish match should produce the logical titleholder.

In a tournament conducted in San Francisco not long ago Parelli emerged victoriously and recognized the titleholder of the 175-pounders. A newcomer here, Champion Parelli is being sent up against Coleman's ace contender, Dynamite Dunn.

The two one-fall matches should be whirlwind affairs. One brings out Pat McGill against the Mexican Young Stecher and the other shows Young Stecher and the Mexican madcap, Juan Del Rio, in a finish rematch. They went to a sensational draw last week.

McGill hails from Balboa Island and is one of the cleverest grapplers on the mat. Sammy Goodwin of Orange will challenge the winner of the Coleman-Detton title bout. The first match is billed for 8:30 o'clock.

MOVIE STAR II LEADS

LONG BEACH. (AP)—The sloop Movie Star II today held a six-point lead over the Skipper II, owned by Howard Wright, Jr., of Los Angeles, by virtue of yesterday's victory in the fourth and semi-final fall championship race of the Long Beach star fleet. The win gave the Movie Star II, sailed by Douglas MacKenzie of Pasadena the series leadership with 21 points.

TROUBLE WAITS THREE NEW MANAGERS IN '38 MAJORS

NEW YORK. (AP)—Three jobs that make the task assigned to Hercules look like two weeks vacation with pay await three incoming major league baseball managers in 1938—Oscar Vitt of the Cleveland Indians, Willy Williams McKee, late of the Boston Bees and now pilot of the Cincinnati Reds, and Mr. X, the unknown next leader of the Bees.

Vitt and McKee, at least, were hired for the specific task of improving their teams' positions in the pennant races. Each will be given a free hand and there's enough class on each club to promise a better showing, but it will take plenty of work to bring it out.

On the surface, McKee, who appears to have assumed the most staggering burden, while Vitt, fresh from Newark, faces a horde of difficulties, physical and mental, in the wigwam.

McKee inherits a club which received great praise last spring, then ran a lame and halting race to windup last in the National league. The new manager, a great hand at bringing out the best in a pitcher, will have something to work with in a mound staff which includes highly promising youngsters.

But Bill's big task is to find power. The power, apparently, must be located in the winter player market, for the club's rookies don't seem to have it.

After accomplishing wonders with a mediocre Boston club in 1937, McKee left his successor two 20-game winners in Lou Fette and Jim Turner as the nucleus of a mound staff; Al Lopez, a capable catcher, and not much else.

In the outfield, Vince DiMaggio hits a long ball but doesn't do it often. The ancient Tony Cuccinello buoyed up last season's infield but there's no telling how long he can keep it up.

Feeding Baylor University's Bear a Shovel Pass

Feeding the Baylor bear a shovel pass, Bill Patterson puts the university mascot to work on the gridiron at Waco, Texas. Joe College is the name of this 427-pound brute who takes delight in slapping 220-pound guards and tackles. He also likes to have co-eds smuggle sweets to him. His favorite pastime, however, when not cavorting on the campus, is eating ice cream cones—six or more at a sitting.

U.C.L.A. Next For Unbeaten Bears

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—The football capital of the country, so far as followers of the great American collegiate sport in this area were concerned, was located on the University of California campus today. Any lingering doubts were dispelled Saturday by the Bears when they put the well known crusher on University of Southern California's Trojans. The count was 20 to 6. Three touchdowns were rolled over by sheer power in the first half. More than 75,000 fans left the Berkeley stadium convinced California could have doubled the score.

Substitutes, playing part of the second half, permitted U. S. C. to score a touchdown. Otherwise, the team which defeated Ohio State and Oregon on successive week-ends before facing the Bears, was no more formidable than previous California victims, including Washington State, Oregon State and Washington State.

California supporters already are chanting "on to the Rose bowl," but before that objective is achieved several difficult hurdles must be cleared. To the three conference victories already attained, the Bears must add these: University of California at Los Angeles, Washington, Oregon and Stanford. The games follow on successive week-ends.

None rate as "pushovers" despite previous defeats. The U. C. L. A. Bruins, nosed out by Washington State last week by the margin of a place kick, face California in Los Angeles next Saturday. No California roster has forgotten last year's game between these two related institutions, the favorite, wound up on the short side of a 17 to 6 score.

While the undefeated California team continues its title drive, the surprising Washington State college squad will try to push Southern California deeper into the ruck. The game will be played at Pullman.

A couple of "dark horses" meet in the Palo Alto battle between Stanford and Oregon State. Each have staged fine comebacks since early season disappointments. Stanford upset a highly favored University of Washington eleven 13 to 7 in Seattle last Saturday, while Oregon State was topping its old rival, Oregon, 14 to 0.

Stanford's win over Washington was accomplished by "breaks" and little else. The yardage went to Washington.

Halfback Joe Gray, one of the best in the west, accounted for the Oregon State victory. He'll be the man Stanford must bottle up if it expects to cling to its position as second place team in the conference.

Comparative figures never win games but Stanford lost to Oregon 7 to 6 and Oregon lost to Oregon State by two touchdowns.

Washington meets Idaho in a non-conference game next Saturday and Oregon remains idle.

NEW YORK. (AP)—Football fellas having a fine old time knocking each other off... Cornell went home with only one "I" left... So did Bucknell... Tulane didn't have any... Ditto Colgate, Southern Calif., Columbia and Louisiana State... Fair Harvard was just that against Dartmouth... Our Navy was sunk, but F. D. R. managed to bat .500 for the day when Army went to town, 47-7 against Washington U., which must of thought it had got to Minneapolis by mistake... Yessir, plenty of ears were pinned back on the old gridiron Saturday.

Two teams with plenty on the ball are Auburn and Detroit U. And time ain't marching on a bit faster than Ohio State... Too bad Big Ten rules make the Bucks ineligible for the Rose Bowl... Still looks like Alabama and California out there... At the head of the "step up and take a bow for yourself" class today are the coaches of Brown, Lafayette, Maryland who left Columbia, New York U. and Syracuse have both barrels... And wasn't it nice to find a fellow named Sweeney in the role of Notre Dame instead of a guy named Zazukowsky, or something.

Our idea of a character with the old college spirit is the guy who rode a bicycle 150 miles over those New England hills to see Dartmouth trounce Harvard... (He was a Dartmouth man)... Southern papers want to know how they're going to leave Joe Kilgore of Alabama off the all-America?... Zipp Newman of the Birmingham News calls the boys who pick football winners "guessers"... University of California team is a 188-pound outfit no matter how you look at it... As a team the Bears average 188... Backfield average is 188. So is the line's... And from tackle to tackle... you guessed it—188... Sam Francis, ex-Nebraska ace, now half backing for the Chicago Bears, once played for the part of a negro lad in a touring stock company... The holdout epidemic in the National Hockey league is worrying the moguls... Boston papers say the real reason Donnie Bush didn't take the Boston Bee job was that Prexy Bob Quinn called off negotiations when Donnie spoke out of turn in announcing he had been offered the post.

N. Y. Giants Await Bears' Invasion

CHICAGO. (AP)—The New York Giants, who've been sailing smoothly through the eastern division waters of the national professional football league, may run into a blow from the west next week-end.

The Giants whipped Brooklyn 21-0 yesterday for a fourth straight victory and have lost only one game. But they'll look at storm signals next Sunday when the Chicago Bears, only undefeated club in the circuit, invade the Polo Grounds to give the New Yorkers their first season's taste of western division opposition.

CHRISTMAS SEALS SHOW TOWN CRIER

The historic town crier of colonial days, who combined the duties of night watchman and guardian of life and property with his better known duty of keeping the people informed of passing events, is pictured on the Christmas seal that will be sold in Orange county this year.

The National Tuberculosis association, which with its local state and county associations throughout the country conducts the Christmas Seal sale, has chosen this design which has been executed by A. Robert Nelson, nationally-known artist, according to an announcement from the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association, Santa Ana.

GAY IN COLOR

The seals this year, gay in color and design, show a jovial town crier, lantern in hand, ringing his bell and calling out his message. In early colonial days the town crier warned of epidemics and sickness and carried the news when disaster was averted and health restored. For this reason the picture of the town crier was chosen to spread the knowledge that tuberculosis. Had the rate of 30 years ago still been in effect, there would have been more than 300 deaths in the county from this communicable, preventable disease. Strides are being made toward the complete eradication of tuberculosis, which is possible.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED
The Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association is now making a plea for volunteer workers in the addressing of envelopes and the assembling of the Christmas seal mail for mailing at Thanksgiving time.

Any who have spare time to contribute to this work so that more money will be available for the educational, clinic and other preventive programs financed by Christmas seals, are asked to communicate with the association, 112 West Fifth street, Santa Ana, phone 4797.

HOME LAUNDRY INTRODUCED

L. M. Turner and Nelson V. Edgar of the Turner Radio Electric returned from Los Angeles Friday with the franchise for Santa Ana for what they consider the most sensational electric appliance since the first radio—the Bendix Home Laundry.

Turner was loud in his praise of this new, automatic electric machine, which he declared would prove a revelation to users of present type washing machines. The Home Laundry, developed in the Bendix engineering laboratories after four years of intensive research and testing, will soak, wash, rinse and damp-dry clothes ready for the line merely by the setting of two electric dials and adding of soap.

"It's uncanny," said Edgar. "You place the clothes in the Home Laundry, which has the general appearance of a small white porcelain refrigerator, set the dials according to the type of clothes to be washed—wool, linens, silks, etc., and for the time you want the washing to continue. Then you simply forget all about it. When the washing is completed the machine automatically stops, and there are the clothes, damp-dried by centrifugal force, ready for the line."

Urges New Test For Drivers

(Special)
LOS ANGELES.—Every person applying for a driver's license in the state of California should be required to submit to a Wasserman test, the California Safety Council was advised by Dr. Frank C. Nolan, president of the California Forestry Medical corps.

In this day, with speed as our worst enemy, I do not think any one suffering from syphilis is capable of making the quick decisions essential in our present traffic," Dr. Nolan explained in his accident prevention recommendations.

"Syphilis sooner or later attacks the nervous system and could seriously affect one's ability to drive an automobile," Dr. Nolan asserted.

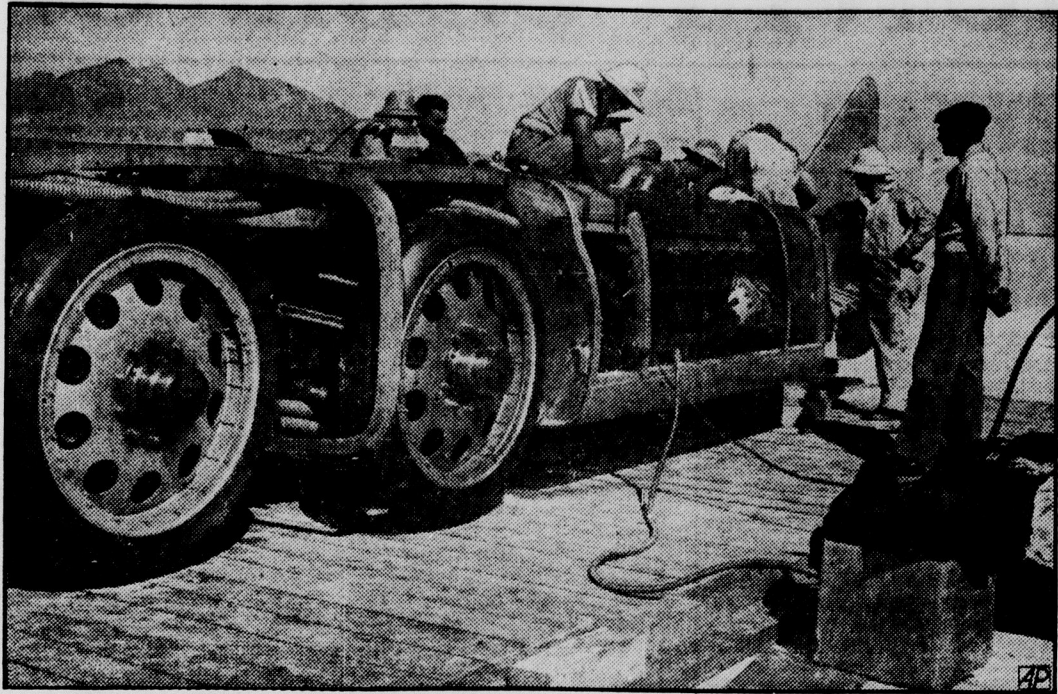

The proposal for a medical tightening-up on driver qualifications was announced here by Ralph D. Lovendale, Safety Council advisory board member, and chairman of its committee on driver fitness.

Mechanics Check Gears in Race Car

Inability to shift gears easily caused George E. T. Eyston, British race driver, trouble in his early test runs at Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, where he hopes to establish a new world's auto speed record. Mechanics are shown removing the machine's streamlined sides preparatory to working on the gears. Captain Eyston (wearing cap, hands behind back) watches the work progress.

LOYALIST SPAIN GETS SUPPORT

Orange county sympathizers with the Spanish loyalists, 250 strong, gathered in the Costa Mesa Women's clubhouse Friday night to hear pleas for Loyalist support by M. Maxwell Burke, Santa Ana attorney, and Dr. Fabian Garcia, former medical attaché with the Cuban army.

America's workers, said Burke, have failed to support the down-trodden working classes of Spain. "I believe in the objects and purposes of the Soviet system," said Burke, "but I deplore the means used."

Dr. Garcia, shouting "the battle of Madrid is the battle of Costa Mesa," also made a plea for money and volunteers for the Spanish loyalists. There were no volunteers, but a number of donations were made.

Capitalists in this country, Dr. Garcia said, "don't want the workers to organize, to have decent wages or decent hours... they don't want the workers to own Spain."

Also on the program was a talking picture, "The Heart of Spain," showing war and hospital conditions there. Earl Blaylock of Santa Ana was chairman.

GAZETTE WILL HAVE BIRTHDAY

Southern California's second oldest newspaper, the Anaheim Gazette, will celebrate its sixty-eighth anniversary this week with a special 28-page historical edition Thursday.

The weekly was founded Oct. 29, 1870, two years after the establishment of the San Diego Union, Southern California's first newspaper.

Anaheim was only a struggling colony in the sand wastes when George W. Barter established the little paper. He published it for a year, and then it was owned successively by Charles A. Gardiner, Richard Melrose, Fred Athearn and the late Henry Kuechel, who died in 1935 after publishing the paper since 1887. The paper is now published by his widow, Mrs. Lute K. Kuechel, and her son, Theodore B. Kuechel.

The Gazette was instrumental in the campaign to have the southern end of Los Angeles county lopped off, a move which created Orange county.

Veteran Indiana Publisher Dies

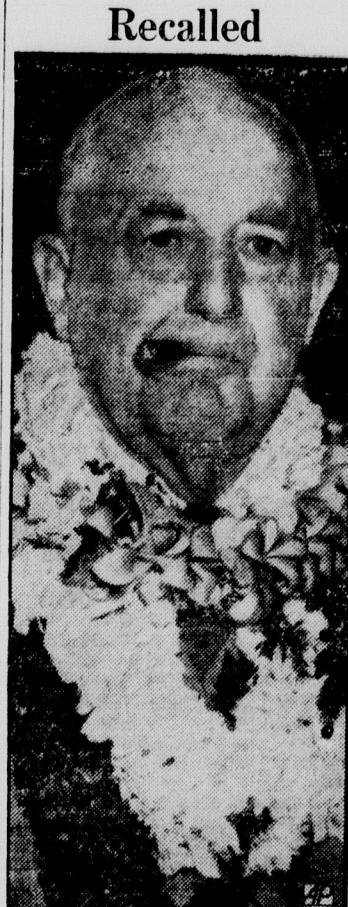

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP)—Coordination of newspaper and radio dissemination of news had lost an ardent supporter with the death of William Howard Taft, Charles Evans Hughes, Warren G. Harding, Calvin Coolidge, Herbert Hoover and Alf M. Landon. He served as secretary at seven national and 19 state conventions.

He had been secretary of the American Newspaper Publishers association since 1934 and a director since 1927.

KILLED IN PLANE
SPARKS, Nev. (AP)—While hundreds of persons watched, Wallie Ashbaugh, 32, Portland, Ore., aviator, was killed when his monoplane went into a tailspin and crashed during dedication ceremonies at the new Sparks airport yesterday.

Blue Hawaii was no bluer than 22 visiting congressmen, including Rep. Bertrand Snell (above), when they heard the call for a special session.

Famed Republican Called by Death

NEW YORK. (AP)—Lafayette B. Gleason, who announced the result of roll calls nominating seven presidential candidates and who served 31 years as secretary of the New York Republican state committee, has answered the final roll call.

"Colonel Life" as he was known to one of the widest circle of friends of any politician in the nation, died Sunday in St. Luke's hospital, after a lifetime devoted to the Republican party. He was 74 years old.

A master of political convention detail, Gleason was a fixture at national and state conventions for 40 years. With a voice that cut through the din and turmoil of the stormiest scenes and a memory that enabled him to call the roll without reference to a printed list he had announced the nomination of William Howard Taft, Charles Evans Hughes, Warren G. Harding, Calvin Coolidge, Herbert Hoover and Alf M. Landon. He served as secretary at seven national and 19 state conventions.

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—The imaginary parade of Hollywoodites with titles before their names and letters after them will begin in a minute.

It can't start until Bing Crosby returns from Gonzaga with his degrees of doctor of philosophy. Why, certainly he'll wear his cap and gown.

Don't get too close to the elephants (courtesy of the Movieland Flea and Animal Co., which believes a parade isn't a parade without elephants), and don't be scared of that fellow in the Ironsides chief's feathers. That's Jean Herschell, or Chief Ha-Wa-Noat since the Indians took him in.

There are so many Kentucky colonels that their brigade doesn't rate a place up in front. There are 78 of 'em, including Mae West and Crosby and Shirley Temple and Wallace Beery. The naval division will parade it, Robert Taylor's admiral in the Nebraska navy, and Clark Gable's one in the Cherry River valley navy.

George Arliss and Paul Muni, given honorary degrees by the University of Southern California for picture performances, will ride on the calliope—for no reason, except that they like music.

Where will Warner Baxter, the poor fellow, march? Once he had an honorary title. He was fire chief of Malibu Beach, and as such went to a fire. He rushed into the thick of it, and came out minus his hat and his badge. He didn't even have a singed eyebrow to prove he was chief. Okay, let him march anyway.

The town has more honorary deputy sheriffs than it has working deputies. It has 109 of the former. And it has 47 deputy fire marshals. Sam Goldwyn is a fire marshal. Sign on his car says so. Wonder what Sam would do if a fire broke out in his studio?

We have a few Texas rangers, too. Jack Oakie and Lloyd Nolan are rangers, and they will be headed by Joan Crawford, who is a captain of Texas rangers. Warner Oland will march by himself, since he's the only honorary member of the Honolulu police department in these parts. Got it for being such a good detective in his Chan roles.

Victor McLaglen hasn't made up his mind whether to parade as a policeman or a fireman. He's a bona fide captain in our police department and a subject-to-call battalion chief in the fire department. Vic has a weakness for uniforms, to maybe he'll come as both.

Make way for Miss Temple. She's also a deputy marshal, and when United States Marshal Robert E. Clark appointed her, he said she could arrest anyone—except the President.

Greta Garbo could be in the parade if she had accepted that medal the king of Sweden sent over. Greta, you don't know what you're missing.

"Sweet" is the English name for dessert. And "joint" stands for meat on the English menu.

NEWSPAPER COSTS RISE

SAN FRANCISCO. (Special)—"Tremendously increased operating costs" were declared today by John B. Long, general manager of the California Newspaper Publishers' association, to be responsible for a "general movement among American newspapers to ward higher subscription prices."

There is "a widespread trend among newspapers in all parts of the nation," Long said in a statement telegraphed from Chicago, "to increase rates because of three factors which threaten to eliminate profitable operations entirely unless such relief is obtained."

"They are: 1. Higher newsprint costs. 2. Steadily mounting taxes, and, 3. Increased wage scales."

Among the many California newspapers which recently were forced to increase their subscription rates Long listed the following: Eureka Humboldt Standard, from $7.50 to $9 a year. Visalia Times-Delta and Morning Delta, from 60 to 75 cents a month and $6 to $7.50 per year. Watsonville Register - Pajaronian, $5 to $7 annually. Redwood City Tribune, 50 to 65 cents per month.

Other increases recently were effected by the Marysville Appeal-Democrat, the Sacramento Bee, Sacramento Union, San Mateo Times and Richmond Independent.

CONFESSES TO THEFT HERE

A story of grand theft and burglary he'd been trying to piece together for more than a year was related to Detective Lieutenant C. W. Wolford of the Santa Ana police yesterday.

It was told by Wallace C. Ochs, 26, Long Beach, who said he wanted to plead guilty to both counts and "take his medicine."

He was arrested on suspicion in Long Beach Saturday when he reportedly was attempting to sell a sweater. A fingerprint checkup later showed he was wanted for questioning in connection with grand theft and burglary of the Majestic Ice Cream company, 501 North Main street, Santa Ana, last year. Ochs readily admitted stealing $330.03 from the ice cream company while he was working there in July, 1936. Lieutenant Wolford reported. The youth also assertedly confessed he had returned to December, entered the store by means of a key he retained when he left the company, and stolen two malted milk mixers valued at $50.

Heroine of Civil War Succumbs

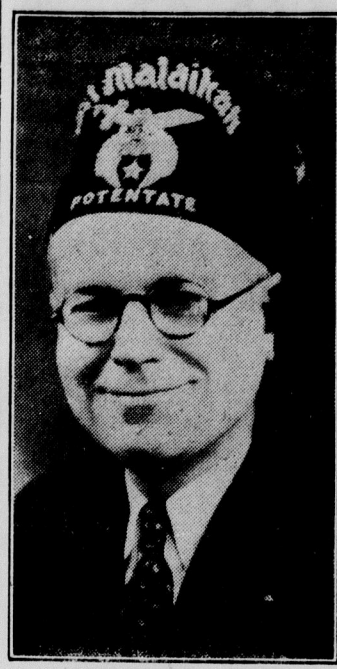

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—One of the confederacy's heroines, Mrs. Joseph L. Griswold, who aided two fugitives from a Union military prison camp, was dead today at the age of 97.

During the war between the states, Mrs. Griswold resided in her native city, St. Louis. Two escaping southern prisoners were concealed by her in her cellar for three days, while Union troops searched the neighborhood.

When the hue and cry subsided, she equipped the fugitives with money and clothing, then helped them over her back fence in the dark on their way down the Mississippi.

In the divan will be Joseph H. Pengilly, chief rabbi; Harold Lloyd, assistant rabbi; William Rhodes Harvey, high priest and prophet; Arthur M. Loomis, Oriental guide; George J. Ramsey, recorder; J. Marion Wright, first ceremonial master, and C. Don Field, second ceremonial master.

The dinner is being arranged by Otto L. Evans and F. C. Mock, president and secretary of the Orange County Shrine club; Thomas Haster, potentate's ambassador at Anaheim, and D. Eymann Huff, potentate's ambassador at Orange.

Monkeys React to Paralysis Vaccine

NEW YORK. (American Wire)—Infantile paralysis may become virtually eliminated if humans react to a vaccine he has developed in the same way monkeys do. Dr. Sydney D. Kramer of Long Island Medical college admitted today. With a solution which is sprayed through the nose he has succeeded in making half to three-fourths of the monkeys experimented on immune, he said. No experiments with humans have yet been conducted.

NEWS OF ORANGE COUNTY COMMUNITIES

LEAGUE WILL FETE MAYOR OF ANAHEIM

New State Head To Be Honor Guest

ANAHEIM.—Mayors, city councilmen and other city officials will unite here Thursday night to honor Mayor Charles H. Mann of Anaheim, who recently was elected president of the California League of Municipalities.

Secretary Albert Launer of Fullerton announced the monthly meeting of the county league will be devoted to honoring Mayor Mann, who has served in various capacities in both the state and county leagues.

President A. C. Boice, mayor of Orange, has urged all members of the county association to attend the meeting in an effort to show Mayor Mann sentiment of the local organization in backing the local man in his new state position. The meeting will open with a 6:45 o'clock dinner in the Elks club dining room on North Los Angeles street, Secretary Launer announced.

BREA PLAYERS PROGRAM TOLD

BREA.—The first appearance of the Brea Community Players will be Dec. 7, when they will produce a series of one-act plays as a benefit for the community clubhouse. A. E. Stuelke is director of the work.

The four plays on which they are rehearsing, and the members of the cast as assigned, includes "The Wedding," with Miss Doris Witten, Gordon Baker, Mrs. William Weiss, Joe Neuls, Voyie Robinson, George Crabill and Mrs. D. W. Goodwin taking part.

"The Florist Shop" will have Mrs. Elmer Weaver, Harrison Thompson, A. J. Barnes, Mrs. Harry Weaver and Ralph Barnes as the cast.

"The Confessional," with Virgil Kiger, Mrs. Ralph Peterkin, Paul Stevens, Mrs. Edythe Northcutt, Cecil Baker and Mrs. Norman LeRoy as the cast.

"So's Your Old Antique," with Arthur Bibb, Mrs. Mark Sarchel, Miss Alice Biddow and Tom Campbell as the cast.

JAYSEE HAS DANCE AT H. B.

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—To the rhythms of Lee Mann's Sunny Californians, the sophomores of Santa Ana Junior college honored freshmen and their queen, Miss Aloen Miller, with a dance in Memorial hall Saturday night.

Between dances a varied program was presented, under the direction of Dean Calvin Flint, who was the master of ceremonies. The program included award of a framed certificate to Miss Miller; a dance contest, which was won by Steve Smith and his partner, Miss Barbara Foye, and award of a number of door prizes.

COUNTY C. E. PARTY TUESDAY

ORANGE.—A costume party for the Orange county Christian Endeavor society will be given Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Orange Presbyterian church, it was announced today by county C. E. officers.

Prizes will be given for the funniest and most original costumes. Games, stunts and moving pictures will furnish entertainment for the young people. All Christian Endeavor members of the county are invited to attend.

PASTOR WILL ATTEND PARLEY

ORANGE.—The Rev. Myron C. Cole, pastor of the First Christian church, left Sunday night for Columbus, Ohio, where he will attend the international convention of Disciples of Christ.

He will make the return trip with the Rev. Franklin H. Minck, former Orange pastor and now pastor of a Long Beach Christian church.

WAR UPSETS BOAT TRIP

Halliburton Junkless--Yet

LAGUNA BEACH.—The Sino-Japanese war has somewhat upset the plans of Richard Halliburton, travelogue writer and adventurer, who has stated a desire to sail a Chinese junk from Shanghai to San Francisco, entering the Golden Gate for the world exposition to be held there next year.

According to Paul Mooney, writer who lives with Halliburton in their concrete home in South Laguna and is at present keeping house while Halliburton is in the East, contrary to most reports, the adventurer will make the trip alone with a Chinese crew.

When things popping in the Orient have quieted down a bit, Halliburton hopes to purchase a Chinese craft of a primitive type and start out on the estimated four months' journey from the Chinese coast to California's northern shores. Constant stops would have to be made for water and supplies.

An unwieldy, bulky craft, the Chinese junk is a slow but seaworthy traveler and even small junks have been known to weather typhoons.

Enrollment in the club is open to women interested in home-making. Programs will be suggested by Frances Liles of the home demonstration department of the farm bureau, who conducted the first meeting. Subsequent meetings are scheduled for 9:30 a. m. the third Thursdays in the month at the Woman's clubhouse.

Charter members include Mrs. B. L. Kirkham, Mrs. J. A. Houlihan, Mrs. H. Otis Webb, Mrs. Emmett A. Holly, Mrs. S. A. Miller, Mrs. J. L. Esser, Mrs. Charles Bes-

NEW ORANGE PASTOR FETED

ORANGE.—A "kickoff dinner" was held by members of the First Christian church here last night, which served to introduce the program of the new pastor, the Rev. Myron C. Cole, for the fall and winter activities, and also marked the advent of the first issue of a new church magazine.

A musical program was furnished by Russell Crouse, Santa garet Ockels, Eldon Winters gave Ana, accompanied by Mrs. Martine readings, and community singing was led by the pastor, with Harold Larson at the piano.

Girl Scouts Get $300 From Laguna

LAGUNA BEACH.—The Girl Scout hut will be further furnished to the extent of $300, the city decided this week, when councilmen granted the sum to scout officials.

For many months, the Girl Scout organization has been seeking means through which to complete and furnish their WPA-constructed building on Wilson street just back of the athletic field.

This substantial gift by the city will fulfill to a great extent any pressing demands to be met in finishing the hut.

H. B. Cub Scouts Slate Party

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Members of Pack 101, Cub Scouts of this city, will hold their second annual Halloween party tonight at the Scout cabin. Appropriate Halloween games will be played during the evening which will be followed by refreshments served by a number of the parents present.

Roy Underwood, cubmaster, assisted by his den chiefs, will have charge of the evening's entertainment.

AVOCADO PROGRAM IS ANNOUNCED

LA HABRA.—The complete program for the seventh annual institute for avocado growers Friday the fifth of such meetings to be held at La Habra, has been announced.

The meeting will be held at the Washington school, starting at 9:30 a. m. It is anticipated that between 400 and 600 growers from all Southern California will attend.

The meeting is called under the avocado departments of the extension agricultural service of Orange and Los Angeles counties. H. H. Gardner, chairman of the Orange county avocado department of the Farm bureau, will be chairman.

The morning session will be devoted to the discussion of the effects of the freeze last winter, and to means of overcoming the effect on trees, with Elwood Trask of San Diego and H. E. March of Orange, with farm advisors of San Diego, Orange and Los Angeles counties, to be in charge.

G. Steele, chairman of the Los Angeles county avocado department, will preside at the 1:30 p. m. meeting, and Floyd D. Young of the United States Weather bureau service will talk on "Lessons from the 1937 Freeze." Lloyd Gardner, president of the Orange County Farm bureau, will discuss legislation problems, and R. W. Hodgson of the division of subtropical fruits, will tell of experimental avocado orchards at the state university.

G. G. Resident's Betrothal Told

GARDEN GROVE.—Announcement of the engagement and approaching wedding of Miss Dorothy Barnes and Avery Howell was made Friday evening at a party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Stuck on Trask avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Rogers assisted with the party arrangement.

Tiny scrolls hidden in nut cups had announced the wedding for Oct. 31 in the Long Beach Calvary Presbyterian church at 3 o'clock. Miss Barnes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Barnes of West Larson road and Howell the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Howell of Placentia.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hein, Huntington Park; Mr. and Mrs. Otto Clausen, Mr. and Mrs. William C. GROWING PAINS

"Honestly I'm amazed at the children of today—she knows things that even I shouldn't know."

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. ROBB

Alfred Redmond, Los Angeles Billmore theater Townsend open-house chairman, came to Santa Ana Saturday night to address the Orange county mass meeting, highly recommended as a speaker. After speaking for approximately an hour to the 350 Townsends and friends gathered in the Townsend hall he received a tremendous applause as he concluded. There is no question but it will be demanded that he fill a return engagement soon.

Previous to District Manager Walsh calling the meeting to order the Hurd-Lentz orchestra gave a splendid 30 minute concert. Dr. U. G. Little led the gathering in community singing, accompanied by Mrs. K. C. Burdick of Costa Mesa. Mrs. Ferguson of Costa Mesa contributed a group of readings and was encored. Announcement was made that W. F. Rockwell had been appointed major to direct the drive for signers on the Townsend petitions and that P. R. Long of Santa Ana had been placed in charge of the 19th district in connection with the Townsend trading stamp proposition. Walter R. Robb announced plans were rapidly going forward toward putting a Townsend float in the Armistice Day parade. Announcement was also made of another giant mass meeting which will be held in the hall next Friday night. District Manager J. H. Walsh presented the speaker to the waiting audience.

"The speaker began by saying: 'Ladies and gentlemen, you are nearer to the enactment of a Townsend plan into law than the most of you think.' He then recited a statement made by Dr. Townsend while paying his recent visit to the Pacific coast, to the same effect. The doctor, according to the speaker, said: 'In all the months of this conflict I have never been so confident of victory as I am now.'"

With dramatic force and effect the speaker made known his belief that the Townsend plan movement was a spiritual kind which originated in the mind of Dr. Townsend as a result of a divine inspiration. He said, "When any one attacks a God-given plan he'd better think twice before doing it as there is certain to result a reaction against such a person as will consume him." This, he said, "is just what is happening to the ones who have attacked this movement." If such is true the audience certainly

Scouts Entertain Beach Rotarians

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Troop No. 2, Boy Scouts of Huntington Beach, gave a demonstration of a few of the things they have learned while in Scouting before their sponsors, the Rotary club, at the club's regular Friday noon meeting.

Dr. Whittaker, chairman of the troop committee, who was in charge of today's program, introduced Ed Elliott, Scoutmaster of the troop, who in turn introduced D. J. Nelson, senior patrol leader, who led the Scouts in their demonstration.

HIGHWAY MEN TO MEET FOR BREA FETE

BREA.—The anniversary meeting of the Imperial Highway association will again be held this year at Brea, the place of birth of the association eight years ago.

The junior chamber of commerce will be in charge at the club house for the 6:30 p. m. dinner Oct. 30, with Art Larson, special chairman, directing arrangements.

Reports on progress of Imperial highway, which runs east and west through Brea, connecting El Segundo with El Centro, are expected to feature the program. The booster body has backed construction of the new road, which is nearing completion. Only a few stretches of road remain to be completed in the fast new highway.

Grove Girls Have Initiation Rite

GARDEN GROVE.—The Girl's Athletic association of the high school met recently for a social evening and to initiate four candidates, Agnes Moore, Doris Clark, Emma Vanderhorst and Nadine Ringler.

During a short business session plans were made for raising funds by selling apples at football games and with a penny dinner to be given in the school cafeteria Nov. 3.

Members attending were Ruth Hosack, Shizuko Shinto, Velma Swayze, Fay Hunt, Dawn Cornett, Cora Fay Kinser, Alma Harper, Esther Lehnhardt, Nelli Vogelzang, Lois Doig, Mary Ochiyo, Mary Kobayashi, Lucille Fairchild, Vera Ester, Nellie Frazier, Dorothy Miller, Virginia Stronge, Peggy Wentz, Rose Endo, Corrine Cornett, Michiko Yamada, Frances Starkey, the advisors, Miss Carmolita Rous, Mrs. Hilda Reaf-snyder and a special guest, Marjorie Brown.

O. E. S. Leaders Feted in L. A.

GARDEN GROVE.—Past Masters of the Garden Grove chapter, Order of Eastern Star, were invited by the present matron, Mrs. Alice Keele and associate matron, Mrs. Clara Bryan, to be their guests at a luncheon in Los Angeles Wednesday and to attend the Grand chapter sessions being held this week at the Ambassador hotel.

In the party were Mrs. Anna Larson of Los Angeles, Mrs. Mae L. Henry, Miss Margaret Hill, Mrs. Ethel Schauer, Mrs. Mabel Doig and Mrs. Emma Kearns. Most of the group remained overnight and returned to their homes Thursday evening.

Ruby to Talk At Garden Grove

GARDEN GROVE.—The first of a series of lectures by Charles L. Ruby, Fullerton Junior college professor, on the subject of "Consumer Education" will be given at a meeting of the high school Parent-Teacher association Monday evening.

Ruby will speak at 7:45 o'clock and the public is invited to attend. Members will convene in the school gymnasium at 6:30 o'clock for a pot-luck supper and the association business session.

BUYS HOME

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—B. B. Galbreath of 907 California street has purchased the home of E. T. Anderson on Delaware avenue, which he has moved to East Star, on the corner of California street and Indianapolis avenue. He expects to spend more than $1000 to remodelize the house which he will afterwards occupy.

Tot Will Love This Smart Set

PATTERN 5953

Here's a chance to please everybody—the delighted youngster who gets his set and yourself who makes it! You'll want to crochet a set for all eligible young misses, the pieces work up so well. Double crochet and popcorns—the latter in white or a contrasting color—are the "making" of it. Use 4-fold Germantown—it works up just right and makes a set as warm as toast—a set that's the last word as a Christmas gift. In pattern 5953 you will find instructions for making the set shown; illustrations of it and of all stitches used; material requirements; color suggestions.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Journal, Household Arts Dept., 117 East Fifth street Santa Ana, Calif. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number

WPA PROJECTS ENDED COST $3,320,534

HART READY TO DIG OUT
'BLACK GOLD'

It won't be long now until the potential Orange billionaire, Mark Hart, starts digging out the fabulously rich graphite ore he and the Fullerton engineer, John Regan, discovered in the San Bernardino mountains.

In fact, work on the mines already has started, and the valuable ore will be hauled out starting in about 10 days, Hart told The Journal today. Roads to the deposits will be built in about a week. A crew of men now is getting the claim ready.

TO BUILD PLANT

At the same time, Hart announced definitely that a graphite refining plant will be located in Orange county he said he is not yet ready to divulge the exact location, but will in about a week. Geologists estimate that the vein discovered contains 5,000,000,000 tons of graphite and graphite ore sells for $100 to $1300 a ton, depending on its richness. This particular graphite is very rich, running 40 per cent pure.

The story of how Hart and Regan discovered the new bonanza which may glut the world graphite market thrilled the district the first of this month. The Orange county men stumbled upon the deposit when they were up near Big Bear lake figuring on a hauling contract. Hart is a trucking contractor and Regan has acted as his engineer.

FOUR PARTNERS

Hart, Regan, N. H. Hilton, local assayer, and Oscar J. Seiler, Long Beach attorney, are partners in the mining venture. They will share alike in proceeds from the rich discovery. C. O. Hewins, Pine Knot, who originally filed on the claim for gold, also will share in the profits.

The mine is situated but a few miles from the old Doble mine from which E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin, wrested a fortune in gold from the rocky cliffs.

The deposit also contains gold, $6 to a ton, and silver, $8 to a ton, and in some places the gold deposit assays $204 per ton.

Local Hospitals Approved by Surgeons College

Two Orange county hospitals had the official stamp of approval of the American College of Surgeons today, it was announced at the opening session of the Twentieth Annual Hospital Standardization conference in Chicago.

The county hospital and St. Joseph hospital at Orange, both caring for general cases, were on the approved list. The county hospital capacity was listed as 341 patients, and St. Joseph as 125.

Santa Ana's only hospital, the Santa Ana Valley, was not included in the list because of a requirement by the College of Surgeons that approved hospitals permit only graduates of Class A medical schools to hospitalize patients there.

"We allow osteopaths to hospitalize patients at the Santa Ana Valley," said Dr. G. Emmett Raitt, chairman of the board, "because they helped build it. In all other respects we meet the requirements."

Stolen from the corner of Third and Sycamore streets Saturday, a car belonging to William J. White, 2319 Bonnie Brea street, was recovered later that evening at 112 East Fourth street.

I JUST FOUND
OUT—Lookouts
Aren't Hermits

By MILLARD BROWNE

Seventy-odd miles of scenic roads in Orange county's back country recently have been inauspiciously opened—but not to the public. Chances are the ordinary run of motorists will never drive on the roads, in fact, because they'd need a pocket full of keys to open a long series of padlocks.

They're more like mountain trails than highways and would furnish a field day for jittery back-seat drivers.

These roads are the county's first line of forest fire defense. "Depression babies," they were built by relief crews from the government's relief alphabet, and because of the concentrated construction during the past five years, Orange county jumped 20 years ahead of itself in its facilities to protect valuable watershed, range and forest land.

The whole fire protection network was unveiled for newspaper work this week-end by Forest Ranger Joe Scherman, one of the few men who has keys to all the closed by-paths, in a tour of the country in and around Cleveland national forest.

Scherman is in charge of rural fire protection for the county, state and federal governments. His domain covers more than 250,000 acres of brush and grass.

Main objective of the county fire patrol is to catch blazes while they're small. An hour might mean the difference between a small brush fire that a four-man suppression crew could put out in 10 minutes and a raging forest blaze that would keep a thousand men busy for days.

That's why Scherman and his boys are so proud of their new roads and trails. In an emergency, they can rush a car or truck to within a mile or so of any spot in the county.

No. 2 keystone of the fire-protection system are three carefully placed lookout stations—on Gilman, Bolero and Santiago peaks. The county's entire back country is visible from at least one of these, and most places can be seen from two of the stations.

When two lookouts spot a blaze, they give exact compass directions to Scherman's central office in Orange, and rangers compute the location of the fire by noting on a map where the lookouts' direction lines cross.

They relay the location to whichever of eight county fire stations is nearest the spot, and a suppression crew is on its way within two or three minutes.

All communication is handled by a private telephone system. Lines for the system were installed by relief workers about the time they put in roads.

Suppression stations are strategically located at San Juan Capistrano, Trabuco, Silverado, Costa Mesa, Orange, Midway City, Buena Park and Yorba Linda. Every spot in the county is within six or seven miles of one of these stations.

Rural fire protection facilities have climbed from practically nothing to a fairly adequate setup in the last seven years, Scherman points out. Only county equipment as late as 1930 was a few shovels. When a house or grassy field flared up in the old days, one of the nearby city departments would help out sometimes, but usually the fire would just burn itself out.

Now the county budgets $5000 for fire protection, state and federal governments double the ante. WPA projects constructed headquarters and barracks at Orange and several other points in the county, and WPA will complete the job this winter by building permanent stations at Yorba Linda and Capistrano.

Scherman's personally conducted tour quickly killed two common misunderstandings: First, the typical fire lookout man is not a grizzled hermit, and second, a fireman's life between emergency calls is not necessarily a bed of roses.

Lookouts at Gilman, Santiago and Bolero are youngish men, come down from the hilltop for two or three days of city life each month, return to civilization for the winter. Mostly smart guys, they have to be technical experts on such things as humidity, atmospheric conditions, etc.

When there are no fires, which usually is the case, suppression crews spend their time doing odd jobs, cleaning and repairing equipment, checking telephone lines and keeping house at their barracks. Scherman treated his party of newshawks to lunch at one of these typical suppression stations, located in Trabuco canyon. Its four men crew, headed by Fire Warden Leo Mathis, and including Dave Fairbairn, Allen Portigal and Kenneth Belford, shares the odd jobs.

Biggest trouble of the county fire department is its rapid turnover in personnel. Nearly all men are laid off when danger of fire has been diminished by winter rains, and many of them find other permanent jobs. "It's practically impossible to keep a good man more than one or two seasons," Scherman complained.

High grass has made this a dangerous fire year. Nearly 125 blazes, mostly brush fires in the lowlands, have broken out already, but none has been serious. Last year produced only 95 fires.

Worst fire in Orange county history occurred in 1926. Starting at Modjeska's home, it raced up Modjeska canyon, raged for two weeks before it was brought under control.

Suppression crews usually put out small blazes without assistance. If the thing gets out of control, however, they draft employees of all nearby ranches, bring in some CCC crews and wage large-scale warfare.

Right now, fire wardens are more tense than at any other time during the year. With grass at its tallest and driest, all they can do is stand by and watch the race between a drenching autumn rain and a parching Santa Ana wind—and hope the wind loses.

ELKS ARE TO HONOR NEW LODGE CHIEF

Robert J. Asbury of Riverside, newly appointed district deputy grand exalted ruler of the Elks lodge, will make his first official appearance at a reception in the Santa Ana lodge rooms tomorrow night.

The meeting is being held in Santa Ana in compliance with an Elk custom of introducing its incoming district ruler at the home lodge of his predecessor. Gilbert P. Campbell of this city is immediate past district deputy grand exalted ruler.

A dinner has been scheduled at 6:30 p. m., followed by entertainment and initiation of seven candidates.

The dinner will be free to members. The Elks double quartet will sing.

BUSINESS TOO BRISK

WALLINGFORD, Conn. — Too much business forced James W. Miller and Merrill K. Lindsay to postpone publication of their new newspaper.

The printers walked out, Miller said, because they objected to the amount of advertising copy they were required to handle.

NO DINING CAR

ELKHART, Ind. — Locked in a box car six days without food or water, Clarence Neu, 38-year-old wanderer, was found half-starved in railroad yards.

He told detectives he crawled into the car Sunday to get out of the rain and went to sleep. When he awoke the door was locked. His cries brought no help. Yesterday he found a loose board in the car door, kicked it out and fell to freedom.

SWAN DIVE

LOS ANGELES. — A Lincoln park swan cracked up 12 stories in the air and landed, quite appropriately, in the hospital.

The bird crashed through a window of the county general hospital, landed stitching by a county veterinarian closed a three-inch neck wound and saved the swan's life.

GIMME A HORSE

RATON, N. M. — The roundup business appears safe from encroachment of such new fangled ideas as aviation.

Roy E. Lewis and his wranglers tried escorting a herd of adolescent beef with an airplane. The plane dived within 500 feet of the steers, and they scattered.

Twenty-five cowboys retrieved all but nine of the 800 steers from distances ranging to 12 miles.

STORK SAVES FINE

SEATTLE. — Accused of driving 41 miles an hour through a 25-mile zone, A. J. Sanders told Police Judge William R. Bell he was rushing his wife to a Tacoma hospital for the expected arrival of a baby.

"Did you get there in time?" asked the judge.

"I did," Saunders beamed. "Good, case dismissed."

U. S. Nine-Power Parley Delegate
Pal of Potentates and Plain Folk

LIKES FAMILY REUNIONS
Never more happy is the newly appointed delegate to the conference of powers under the Nine-Power treaty than when presiding at a family reunion. Davis is shown here with two grandchildren.

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON. — Tennessee's homespun Norman H. Davis hobnobs with potentates, premiers and gold-braided diplomats but he wouldn't look out of character at a gathering of cracker-box philosophers in a crossroads' country store.

An engaging simplicity of speech and manner, a soothing southern drawl and a patient toleration for the other fellow's viewpoint has won for Uncle Sam's ambassador-at-large the good will of statesmen in other countries, politicians at home and plain folk wherever he has gone.

The deliberate, pipe-puffing banker-business man, who enjoys his job as the government's roving envoy, will represent the United States at the Nine-Power conference on Sino-Japanese hostilities in Brussels, Oct. 30.

The unaffected candor of this plain, little man, with whitened hair and quizzical blue eyes, masks what his associates in the foreign service describe as a "photographic knowledge" of the intricate inter-relationships of all the principal countries.

WILSON'S ADVISER

Patient and conciliatory, he has been rated highly effective in preventing international friction at parleys from reaching the explosive stage. But back of his easygoing manner is a stubborn perseverance and a zest for work which keeps him plodding toward an objective when others have long since abandoned hope of its attainment.

During the peace negotiations, Davis was financial adviser to President Wilson. He vigorously opposed the heavy reparations which were being imposed upon Germany and predicted they would sow the seeds of future discord in Europe.

Two years ago while Italo-Ethiopian warfare was raging, Ambassador Davis said: "We cannot remain at peace just by hoping to do so."

The statement, scarcely noticed then, becomes significant now in view of President Roosevelt's recent declaration that peace "cannot just be wished for or waited for."

Rev. Rasmus Preaches on
'Daily Miracle'

The Rev. H. I. Rasmus, jr., pastor of the First Methodist church, delivered a sermon Sunday morning on "A Daily Miracle." He took his text from John 3:3, "Verily, verily I say unto you, except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God."

The sermon follows, in part: "The word 'born again,' is a continuing verb. Jesus is saying therefore, 'Except a man is born again, and again, and again, and again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.' This means that no one experience gives entire vision. It is a growth in vision. Matthew Arnold said, 'Perfection is not a being, nor a having; it is an eternal becoming'—a becoming something finer, more beautiful, more vital."

IMPACTS LIFE

"The 'born again' experience is the process by which God imparts the spiritual life to men, and we believe that out of this experience will come three affections, all of which intensify and clarify our vision of the kingdom."

"The first affection is a love of truth. Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of truth—the kingdom of God. Some men will not accept truth unless it comes through certain channels and bears certain labels. This is a pathetic form of blindness and leads to a fettered experience. One of the profoundest statements Jesus ever made was this: 'Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free' and truth is truth wherever we find it.

"The second affection is a love

'CANDID AMERICAN'
That is the title Norman H. Davis, President Roosevelt's ambassador-at-large, has won in the world's conference chambers.

Home Visited
Twice by Chief

For the second time in the past few days, a burglar broke into the home of Mrs. Charlotte Waltz, 612 West Eighth street, Saturday while the nurse who had been caring for her was out.

The burglary was reported by Mrs. Marian Paulsen, nurse, who said she had gone to the store for about 15 minutes Saturday and that a burglar apparently had forced the back door, prowled about the front rooms in the house and left without disturbing Mrs. Waltz. Nothing was reported stolen, although several articles were moved around.

WORK RELIEF
PROGRAM IN
THIRD YEARDepartment Heads
Make Annual Report

Operations of the Works Progress Administration entered the third year in Orange county today. And annual reports from local WPA officials revealed that a grand total of $3,320,534 has been spent here on completed projects alone during the past two years!

This does not include costs of operating projects, and this latter figure will run the grand total up a couple of million dollars more. Figures were not yet available on complete expenditures on projects now operating.

COMPLETE 190 PROJECTS

Thousands of men and women were given employment during the two-year period, in which a total of 190 projects of various kinds were completed. There are 49 projects now operating, some of them county-wide in scope with as many as 13 units.

Of the $3,320,534 which has been expended in Orange county on completed projects alone, Uncle Sam spent $2,608,409. Sponsors of projects contributed a total of $712,125. The latter figure indicates the local expenditures.

GOVT. SPENDS MOST

Dan Mulherron, chief of the construction division, reported that the government spent $1,772,762 on the completed projects, and sponsors $598,677. These projects are of a constructional nature.

Fred P. Jayne, head of the PTWW division, reported that the government spent $835,647 on its projects, and sponsors $113,448. These expenditures are on the completed projects alone. The projects in this division include pest control, women's sewing units and other so-called "white-collar" projects.

Tea Reveals Marriage Plans

Lindsay - Sprague Engagement Is Announced

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Marjorie Helen Lindsay and Weston Finley Sprague, made yesterday at a formal tea given by Miss Lindsay's mother, Mrs. A. J. Lasby, was of particular significance to county residents, for the December wedding of the popular couple will unite two of the most prominent families of the county. The groom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Sprague, also of Santa Ana.

Yesterday's affair was unusually charming. Guests calling between the conventional hours of from two to five o'clock were greeted by Mrs. Lasby in smart black hostess frock with rose sequin trim. Mrs. Sprague in jewel-toned burgundy crepe, and Miss Lindsay in black with white sequin bodice. All wore lovely flowers sent by Mr. Sprague.

The rooms of the Lasby home were ablaze with beautiful blossoms, most of which had been sent complimenting Mrs. Lasby, whose birthday anniversary the announcement day also was. Those participating in this friendly courtesy were Mrs. J. F. Burke, Mrs. Theo. Winbiger and Mrs. Sprague.

Also greeting guests was petite Miss Moya King, wearing a long white frock with exquisite hand-touched, and carrying a silver basket from which she extracted tiny formal announcement cards to give to each guest. Her mother, Mrs. Loyal King, stood near by to assist the hostess, as did Mrs. John Tassmann and Mrs. W. Kenneth Lindsay of Los Angeles, both in long afternoon frocks. Little Miss Sharon Lindsay, granddaughter of Mrs. Lasby, assisted in many small details, as did three school friends of the charming blonde honor guest, Mrs. Floyd Blower (Margaret Finley), Miss Marian Hawk and Mrs. Tim Talbert (Medora Smith).

Exquisite simplicity characterized the handsome tea-table over which Mrs. Tassmann, Mrs. Lindsay, Mrs. Frank Hanson and Miss Bernice McBride of Los Angeles alternated in presiding. A silver bowl of dainty white chrysanthemum blossoms was flanked by tall white tapers, and the same bridal theme was repeated elsewhere in the room.

Miss Lindsay was graduated last spring from the University of California, where she was affiliated with Alpha Chi Omega. Mr. Sprague was graduated from Pomona college.

DINNER CLUB MEETS AT MORRISON HOME

The Morrison home at 524 Lincoln street put on holiday dress when Judge and Mrs. Kenneth Morrison entertained their Saturday night club over the week-end, with Mexican sunflowers and black and orange tapers on the dinner table repeated the colors of Halloween decorations elsewhere. Present at the happy affair, first to be enjoyed by Judge Morrison since his accident, were Mr. and Mrs. Logan Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Hockaday, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Harrison, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Peterson.

CANADIANS CONCLUDE VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Scott, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Richardson, and Mrs. George Allen left Saturday for their home in Vancouver, B. C., after a visit with the C. F. Clelland, 1010 North Broadway. It was a reunion of the four sisters. On Friday night the group was joined at dinner by Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Clelland, with many beautiful California blossoms used by Mrs. Clelland to decorate her home. Other callers during the evening were Mr. and Mrs. R. Weisgerber and Carlotta and Beverly.

DINNER BRIDGE CLUB MEETS

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Harrison entertained their dinner-bridge club Saturday evening in their attractive new home on Bonnie Drive. The absence of the Richard Winklers and the Auld-Norlunds reduced the group to an eightsome, with the Frank Harringtons, the Rolla Hayeses, and the Kingsley Tullies completing the list.

The same group, together with Mr. and Mrs. William Jeffrey, spent the afternoon at the Tuttle ranch home, listening to the football game.

COIN DOTTED CHIC

Brown dots as big as silver dollars help make the chic of this sheer beige wool dress designed with a high neckline and a fringed shawl. It is a good frock to wear now with a fur scarf and later under a winter coat. The draped turban is made of beige wool to match.

Book Review of the Week

Editor's Note: This is one of a series of weekly book reviews of current publications which will appear each Monday in The Journal. A Review of "NORTHWEST PASSAGE" by KENNETH ROBERTS (Courtesy Treasure Isle Gift Shop, 506 North Main)

By MOLLY HARVEY

What romantic visions the very name "Northwest Passage" invokes; visions of empire and untold wealth to the finder of that fabulous short cut to China and India through the savage land of the Americas. In the early days of our country there were many who dreamed of discovering that path, and just as many whose dreams ended in glorious failure. One of these was Major Rogers, of whom Mr. Roberts says that "given the proper guidance he might have been a greater prince than Genghis Khan."

After reading this vivid account of the Major and his almost superhuman qualities it seems surprising that he has never been given his due place among our national heroes. During the French and Indian wars in the middle part of the eighteenth century, Major Rogers commanded a battalion of frontiersmen-soldiers known as Rogers' Rangers. His was the only company for whom the hostile Indians had any respect, and as an Indian fighter and leader of men his fame spread throughout the thirteen colonies and preceded him to England where he went at the end of the wars to procure backing for his expedition to locate the Northwest Passage. Unfortunately, red tape, petty jealousies, and greedy officials prevented him from ever achieving what would have been a fitting climax to a turbulent and colorful career.

Kenneth Roberts has written a thrilling story which combines the blood-thirsty qualities of "The Last of the Mohicans," the stark endurance of Captain Bligh's journey in the long boat of the "Bounty," and a love story as tender as "Daddy Long Legs." His descriptions of the different Indian nations, their cruelties and unexpected kindnesses, their dress, their food, their houses, etc., are fascinating. He selected as varied and typical a set of characters as were ever included in one book, and has managed to make them not only logical, but human, a quality which is hard to realize in an historical novel.

The author takes us from the wilderness of the Great Lakes, to the best known coffee houses in London; from a snug New England parsonage to the debtors prison, Newgate; from the bustle and smells of river shipping to rooming house at Harvard college, all with an accuracy of detail that is amazing and must represent months of patient research.

But the entire story is dominated by Major Rogers, whom at times seemed almost a God, and at other times acted as if he were possessed by demons. When the English called the Indians together to decide on trading regulations, Rogers was the only one whom the Indians would trust, for having fought against him in former years, they understood his motive.

As a reward for his services to the Crown, Rogers was made commander of Fort Michilimackinac on the border of the Great Lakes, at that time the last English outpost. From here Rogers hoped to begin his discoveries. And at this point in the story the author gives us marvelous accounts of the color and confusion and rough life which centered around those combined forts and trading posts.

Here again Rogers soothed the Indians, prevented inter tribal wars, enabled white traders to continue enriching themselves and the British Empire, was worshipped by his men because he treated them on a basis of equality, a trait absolutely unknown in the strict discipline of the English officers. When he was arrested on a pretext by superiors, thrown in chains and taken to England for court martial, his friends knew he was too big a man to ever die, and that no matter how low he sank at time of temptation or disappointment, they would never want to be rid of him or the things he stood for.

When members of the Third Travel section of Ebell observed their annual guest night on Friday evening, they found that the Ebells lounge scene of their party, was crowded by interested families and friends of the members.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Sam W. Nau and Mrs. F. P. Nickey, and Mrs. Nau, program chairman, also introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. C. T. Boyer told of her personal experiences, traveling up the Yangtze river into the interior of China. Warren Brakeman showed several films of China which were loaned by Miss Lulu Minter.

Mrs. S. A. Moore, leader of the section, presiding during the evening, and refreshments were served by a special committee headed by Mrs. Perry Lewis. She was assisted by Mrs. Albert Bowen and Mrs. Herbert Krahling.

Members of the North Section of the First Methodist church Woman's Aid met in the social hall of the church last Thursday for an all-day meeting, featuring a covered-dish luncheon and social hour at noon.

During the morning hours the group worked on a quilt for the bazaar to be held Dec. 3, and in the afternoon, Mrs. P. L. Etchison conducted a business meeting. Mrs. Mary Allen led devotionals.

Present for the meeting were Mrs. P. L. Etchison, Mrs. Louis Allen, Mrs. Charles Leach, Mrs. Beatrice Hossler, Mrs. C. A. Schief, Mrs. John Black, Mrs. W. L. Miller, Mrs. Frank Early, Mrs. Delmar French, Mrs. Mary Allen, Mrs. Ida Confer, Mrs. F. F. Stochabrand, Mrs. R. A. Adams, Mrs. Smiley, Mrs. J. Smith, and Mrs. F. W. Wager.

RELIEF CORPS Members of the Sedgwick Relief corps will gather at 11:30 a. m., Wednesday, Oct. 27, for the inspection of the department officers. There will be a business meeting in the M. W. A. hall at 1 p. m.

Fete Held At Osterman Home

Wedding plans of Miss Lois Osterman and Elmer "Cherry" Osterman for November seventh at Laguna Beach are inspiring many delightful affairs in honor of the popular young couple, most recent of which was a miscellaneous shower given for the bride-elect by Mrs. John Osterman, mother of the groom-to-be.

The ranch home of the Ostermans was prettily decorated with autumn flowers of all sorts, their vivid colors making a warm and cheery background for the group of friends who enjoyed the evening of courtship.

A highlight of the evening was the opening of many lovely gifts by Miss Courtney. Present were Mrs. S. A. Jones, Mrs. J. C. Courtney, Mrs. Willard Courtney and Mrs. Russell Atkinson of Santa Ana; Mrs. Donald Clark of Pasadena; Mrs. John Tomlin, Mrs. A. L. Tomlin and Mrs. J. A. Sherman of Orange; Mrs. George Osterman and Mrs. Foster Prather of El Tor; Miss Emma B. Hield and Miss Mae Rose Borum of Tustin, and Miss Shirley Prather.

MRS. SCUDDER HOSTESS TO SECTION

Mrs. C. W. Scudder was hostess to members of the Southland section of the First Presbyterian church Ladies Aid in her home, 625 South Broadway, on Thursday, with Mrs. Roy Johnson, leader, conducting the session.

The group planned their part in the bazaar to be held by the general aid on Oct. 30 at 303 North Sycamore street. During the afternoon Mrs. S. A. Jones, who on her trip in the Orient and showed curios she had brought home. Miss Ruth Hawley gave two readings. Refreshments were served in the afternoon by Mrs. Cynthia Davis and her committee, Mrs. O. J. Hawley, Mrs. Laura Boyd, Mrs. A. J. Brockman, Mrs. Kathryn White, and Miss Margaret Knight.

GROUP ENJOYS BENEFIT BRIDGE FOR FUND

With all proceeds going to the foundation fund, a small group of women's club members gathered in the home of Mrs. C. W. Clarke, 1322 North Garnsey street, Friday afternoon for a benefit bridge. Red leaves and decorated gourds centering each table were seasonably arranged, and the hand-made quilts carried out a Halloween motif. High scores in contract were won by Mrs. F. A. Martin and low by Mrs. E. J. Grothier. Those who enjoyed the afternoon of play and the dessert course were Mrs. F. A. Martin, Mrs. R. A. McMahon, Mrs. E. M. Waycott, Mrs. G. N. Coon, Mrs. A. J. Grothier, Mrs. C. R. Walter, Mrs. Margaret Church, and Mrs. Clarke.

DINNER FETES MRS. SALVESON

Mrs. Melvin Salvesson was the surprise guest of honor at a luncheon in her home east of Anaheim Saturday evening. Guests arrived early in the evening, bringing with them materials for dinner and many lovely gifts. Participating in the pleasant affair were Mr. and Mrs. Max Royer, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chamberlain and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Callans and two daughters, Mrs. and Mrs. Al Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Don Williams, Mr. and Mrs. John Knox, and the Salvessons.

DAUGHTER CAN DRESS HERSELF IN MARIAN MARTIN WRAP-AROUND!

Fun to wear—this dashing wrap-around frock that any young lady can easily slip into without any help. Fun to launder—for Pattern 9487 spreads out flat for ironing. Your daughter will look too cute for words in this beautiful detail that affords mother an opportunity for fabric effects, specially if she uses a plaid or check. You've a choice of jaunty button accents, and that saucy Peter Pan collar is optional, but a joy to contrast. A new dark-hued plaid with pique collar is a grand choice for fall. In Santa Ana weather, but jersey would be ideal when Jack Frost appears. You'll find it a pleasure to stitch up this love of a frock with the aid of the complete diagrammed Marian Martin sew chart that shows you every step in its easy making.

Pattern 9487 may be ordered only in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6 requires 2 yards 36 inch fabric and 1/4 yard contrast. Send 15 cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Just out! Marian Martin Fall and Winter Pattern Book. Get it now and see what fashion-magic you'll achieve easily, quickly, and on the most limited of budgets! Each simple pattern points the way to clever clothes economy. Glamour for parties. Chic for everyday. Every member of the family will welcome this fascinating, practical guide to fashion! Learn "what's new" in fabrics, gifts, accessories! Order your copy now! Price of book 15 cents. Book and pattern together, 25 cents.

Gala Affair Attracts Crowd

A Mardi Gras of brilliant color and revelry, Saturday night's costume party at the Santa Ana Country club was pronounced an overwhelming success. Nearly 200 costumed guests arrived early in the evening to find a clubhouse transformed by holiday decorations and pumpkins, ghosts, and witches covered walls and ceilings, and at one end of the ballroom was arranged an attractive long table on which box-lunches were placed to be judged as to their beauty, and to be drawn along with supper partners.

The tempting array was considered carefully by the judges, Mrs. Emil Wagner, Mrs. B. T. Gothard, and Mrs. Bennie Osterman before they finally awarded handsome prizes to Mrs. Paul Hall, Mrs. C. V. Doty, Mrs. J. R. Stevens, and Mrs. Wayne Harrison for their contributions.

It was later in the evening that the assembled group joined in the Grand March around the ballroom floor, giving onlookers ample opportunity to note the ingenuity, beauty, and ludicrous qualities of each of the colorful outfits. The costumes, ranging from the beautiful, dashing caballeros of the Hawaiian movie-take-offs, quaint old-fashioned frocks—the gamut of attire was run.

Deemed most effective of ladies' costume was the hula garb of Mrs. William Jeffrey, while high award for the men went to Bennie Osterman, who, in a mustache and handsome Spaniard. Second prizes were won by Mrs. Roy Renwick, demure in poke-bonnet and hoop-skirt, and by Claude Knox, a very deceptive Puritan. Prize for the funniest attire went to Mrs. Phil McVicker, dressed as a freckled hayseed, and to Wayne Harrison, who was a combination of Harpo Marx and a straw-chewing rustic. Judges were the Hugh Lowes, the Rex Kennedys, and the Robert Westons.

Glimpses among the many striking outfits in addition to the prize-winners were Mrs. Wayne Harrison, in long red frock, veil, and orange blossom wreath, as "The Bride Wore Red"; Mrs. Roy Langley in a vivid-hued patchwork dress; Mrs. Riley Hulse in a quaint picture-frock; Mrs. Bob Fernandez as a little Dutch girl with winged cap and wooden shoes; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Stevens as Halloween clown and an alluring Fatima; Mrs. Paul Hall as a little Mexican girl; Mrs. Lawrence Cameron as a black-haired gypsy, complete to wig and bandanna; Mr. and Mrs. Fay Hochstrasser, the former in farm-boy attire, and the latter in a bodiced gingham gown; Don Jerome as a swaggering Spanish gentleman; Mrs. John Swankie in peasant high and skirt; Ralph Culp as Sherlock Holmes; Duley Jeffrey in sombrero and sash; Mrs. Emmett Elliott as a colorful gypsy.

Mrs. Claude Knox in a saucy little peasant costume; Mrs. Dean Collier in a demure bustle frock of striped satin; the Warren Fletchers, she in a bouffant Philippine frock, and he as a soldier of the guard; Mrs. Ralph Culp as a Russian peasant and Mrs. Bill Fernandez as a Spanish senorita; Mrs. V. Doty as a Peeping Tom; and G. Flagg masquerading as a nursemaid, with his small grand-daughter, Miss Linda Huber as his costume!

Easy to remember The fact words she said "Over and over now that she is dead."

JUVENILES HAVE HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Miss Margie Chapman, 612 North Olive street, director, was hostess at a Halloween party for the Royal Neighbor Juveniles on Saturday afternoon.

Final plans were made for the fish bowl at the carnival and bazaar that Golden State camp, R. N. A., is holding Wednesday, Oct. 27, in K. C. hall.

Games were enjoyed by the children, after which Miss Chapman served refreshments. Fourteen juveniles and seven grownups were present. The next meeting will be a business session at the home of Mrs. Ruth Lumm, 1420 West Seventeenth street, Nov. 13.

YOUNG PEOPLE ENJOY PARTY

A gay Halloween party and dance was enjoyed Friday night by 12 of the Pioneers of Mrs. R. Russick's Girl Scout troop and their guests. They were chaperoned at the jolly affair by Mrs. Russick, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Haven, and Mrs. Frank Corey. In the party were Bethel Haven, Natalie Ely, Ruth Ames, Mary Corey, Rose Mary Blodgett, Ruth Baker, Irene Noble, Margaret Rutan, Jean Russick, Josephine Butler, Phillip Youel, Ralph Haven, Earl Haven, Lytle Hanson, Jesse Wolfe, David Geddes, Charles Priddy, Jack Triplett, Gordon Bennett, and Ray Adkinson.

CHURCH WOMEN TO MEET HERE

The annual district meeting of the Orange County Episcopal Women's auxiliaries will be held all day Wednesday at the Church of the Messiah in Santa Ana.

The session will begin with Holy Communion at 10 a. m. Those attending are to bring their own lunches. Tea and coffee will be served.

Racks often are neater and more convenient than hooks for towels. They may be fastened to a kitchen door.

Mary Stoddard Ex-Husband Bewildered By Attempts of Divorced Wife to Revive His Love

Today there appears just a little different twist to the problems that face our readers every day. This time an obviously serious and intelligent man is bewildered by the sudden attempt of his ex-wife to once more get in his good graces and revive his dead love for her. The reason for the divorce originally was because of her unfaithfulness, in always flirting with other men.

POETRY

Poetry is your inner self speaking. A voice you either keep in your heart, or hold in your hands, ready to share with those that speak your language.

No matter how inarticulate, with it, you are master of many, and servant of none.

With it you hold the magic wand that makes others see through your eyes... see a world of beauty that is filled with song... gives them ears to hear the whisper of unseen wings... feel the fingers of the wind in blessing, the soothing touch of the sunshine... know the ecstasy of creative power... teaches you never to be lonely... that you can be sufficient unto yourself... that the days and nights are never long enough to accomplish what you have planned to do.

And with Chico in "Seventh Heaven" you sometimes feel as if you could "reach up and touch a star."

THE QUIET ONE

If she ever ached To talk about the blue Canopy of heaven No one ever knew.

We who were closest Were strangers, every one. Though her Bible named us: "Daughter," "Son."

Even with us She never voiced a wish For bird or flower Book or dish.

If with loneliness Her heart was stirred; If she dreamed dying, No one ever heard.

We sensed with panic, The years going by, Taking her from us But we couldn't pry.

The things we wanted So very much to know Couldn't be answered By "Yes" or "No."

"Had she been happy When she was young?" Never a memory On her gentle tongue.

But once she said In her quiet room: "Be in the new Richmond Lilacs are in bloom."

"The sweet red clover Grew waist high... When we were children... Your father and I."

Humbly heroic With no loud-beating drums; She said: "You must take Life as it comes."

Easy to remember The fact words she said "Over and over now that she is dead."

MRS. BROWN ENTERTAINS FOR TOROSAS

Seating her guests at small tables centered with a bowl of chrysanthemums and dahlias, Mrs. Ethel Brown entertained fellow members of the Torosa Past Noble Grands association for luncheon in her home, 327 Berkeley, last week.

During the course of the afternoon members planned a bazaar to be held Dec. 4, with Mrs. Laura Tramel, president, conducting the proceedings. Mrs. Leona Talbot will be hostess to the group in her home, 319 West Third street, for a pot-luck luncheon on Nov. 18.

Members present for the meeting included the Mesdames Lucille Rathborne, Martha McKee, Estella Gray, Laura Tramel, Bertie Launbach, Mary S. Watkins, Ada Spencer, Lottie Lyman, Leona Talbot, Fannie Lacy, Jean Tremble, Ethel Brown, and Maude Lentz.

BUFFET SUPPER

Sunday night supper guests of Margery and Donald Button at their Spurgeon home were Mrs. Mr. and Mrs. Braden Finch and Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Norland. Wooden candelabra with autumn leaves and tree-asters in an amber bowl marked the buffet service.

I. T. U. AUXILIARY

Members of the auxiliary to the International Typographical union will enjoy a social meeting at the home of Mrs. C. E. Fisher, 405 East Washington street, tomorrow, Oct. 26.

Mrs. Conklin Gives Dual Parties

Graciously entertaining groups of friends in her home, 2457 Heilott drive, Mrs. Roscoe M. Conklin was hostess on Friday and Saturday afternoons at delightful noon luncheons followed by afternoon of contract with four tables in play each day.

Many bowls of autumn flowers were set throughout the lovely rooms, many the gifts of several friends, including Mrs. Bernard Parker, Mrs. Glenn Mathis, and Mrs. James Workman. The dining room, where a charming luncheon was served at small tables, was enlivened with bouquets of dahlias and chrysanthemums in yellow and orange shades.

Assisting Mrs. Conklin on both days was Mrs. John Lacy Taylor. On Friday, Mrs. Chester Horton also assisted, and on Saturday Miss Ruth Bradley.

Choice pieces of gay pottery were awarded as prizes in the contract games. Mrs. Chester Horton and Mrs. E. J. Hanna were fortunate on Friday, while Mrs. Burt Zaiser and Mrs. Crawford Nalle held first and second scores on Saturday.

These were greeted in the Conklin home on Friday were the Mesdames Milo Tedstrom, Chester Horton, Aubrey Glines, Edward Lee Russell, James McCalla, John Cannon, Bernard Parker, E. J. Hanna, Glenn Mathis, Joe Herschler, Harold Moomaw, Don Park, John Lacy Taylor, J. H. Ebersole, Thorburn White, and James Workman.

Included on the guest list Saturday were the Mesdames Milan Miller, Walter Bacon, Quentin Matzen, Gary Bennett, Bruce Anderson, Lee Smith, Crawford Nalle, Clarence Ranney, Don Heilewood, Burt Zaiser, Mervyn Bryte, John Newman, John Lacy Taylor, Miss Sada Mae McAulay, and Miss Ruth Bradley.

SOPH-FROSH PROM IS COLORFUL EVENT

New winter formal gowns were brought out Saturday evening for their first wearing when the annual Soph-Frosh ball held at the Huntington Beach Memorial hall inaugurated the Santa Ana Junior college formal season.

Music for the dance was provided by Lee Mann and his "Sunny Californians" orchestra, and arrangements were in charge of Bill Semmacher, sophomore class president. A special event of the evening was the presentation of a plaque and basket of flowers to Miss Alton Miller, recently elected queen of the freshman class. She was crowned in an attractive printed crepe frock.

Other committee chairmen for the affair were Roy Potter and Miss LaVonne Franson, decorations; Miss Aileen Miller, ticket sales; Art Salisbury and Jack Gardner, advertising; and Miss Carolyn Davis, bids.

Patrons and patronesses for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Henderson, Mrs. Henderson in brown lace; Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Flint, Mr. Flint in white peltie crepe; and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bartholomew, the latter in red taffeta.

Decorations throughout the hall were arranged with myriads of tiny silver stars hanging from the ceiling, with blue reflectors on the lamps topped by larger stars.

Seen dancing during the evening were Miss Ruth Jump in white crepe with sequins, Miss Barbara Cook in burnt orange satin, Miss Gloria Kirchner in white accordion-pleated chiffon, Miss Elaine McReynolds in white crepe, Miss LaVonne Franson in black velvet, Miss Phyllis Kogler in black net, Miss Dorothy Black in black organza with lace, Miss Lorraine Black in dotted white organza, Miss Carolyn Davis in blue organza, and Miss Ellen Raitt in red satin.

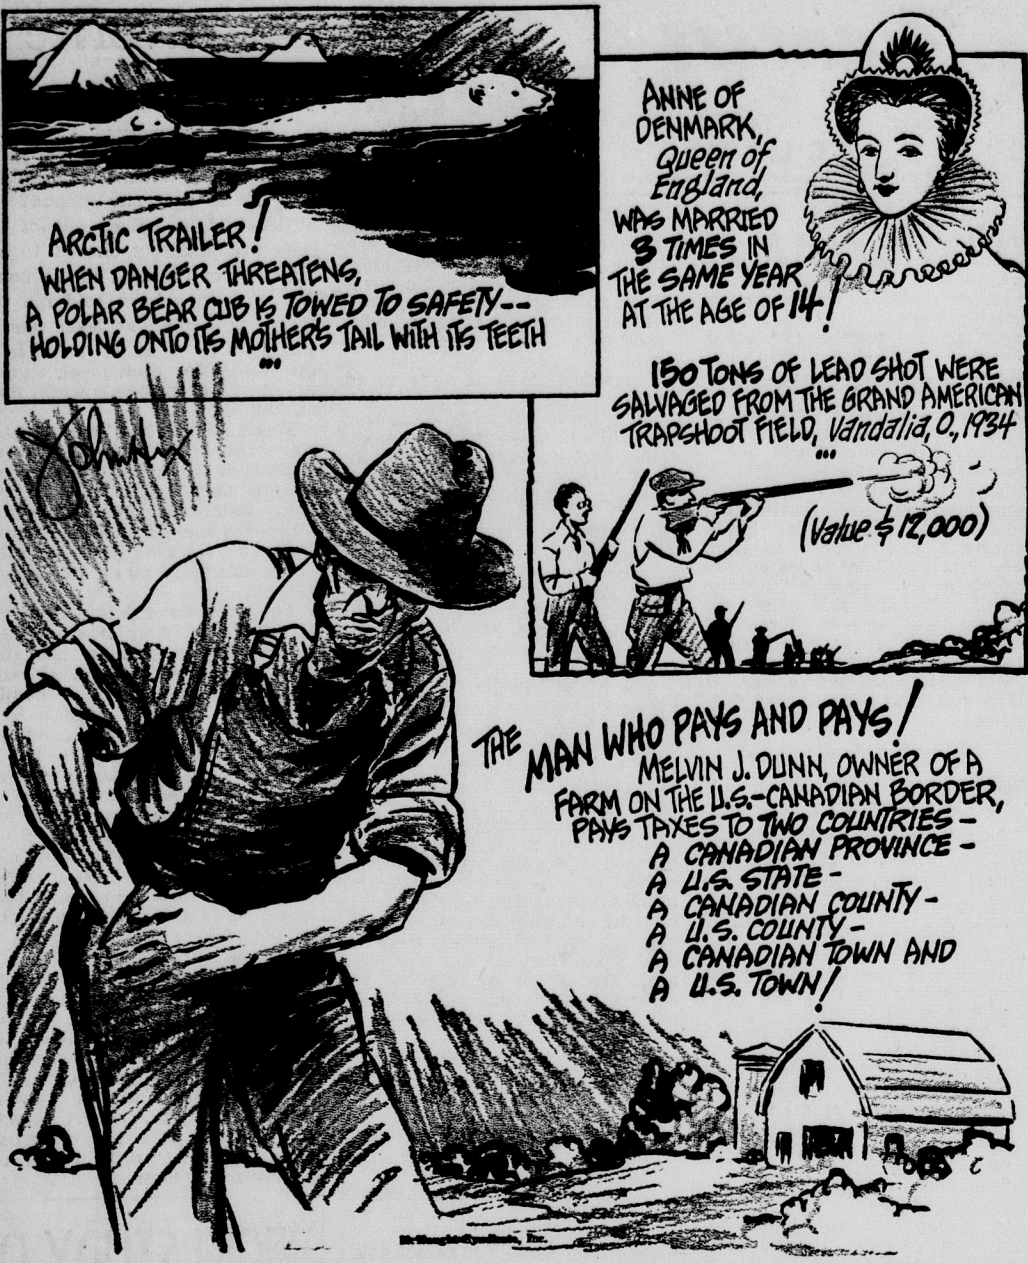

SEWING CLUB

CARNIVAL AND BAZAR Golden State camp, R. N. A., is having a Halloween carnival and bazar in the K. of C. hall Wednesday evening, Oct. 27.

The V. F. W. Sewing club will meet Friday, Oct. 29, with Mrs. Anna Planchon, 205 Pomona street, for an all-day affair with a covered dish luncheon at noon.

THE MAN WHO PAYS AND PAYS...

Strange as it seems, Melvin J. Dunn, owner of a farm on the United States-Canadian border, pays taxes to no less than eight different governments. Treasuries benefitting from Dunn's tax payments are those of the Canadian and American national governments, the Province of Quebec, the state of Vermont, Orleans county Vermont; Brome county, Quebec, and the towns of North Troy, Vermont and Mansonville, Quebec.

Oddly enough, though two-thirds of the 150 acres comprising his farm are situated on the Canadian side of the border. Dunn pays approximately two-thirds of the taxes on the American side. In America he pays $245 in yearly taxes while in Canada he pays only $120.

Mr. Dunn: "Our barn is located right on the boundary line. On the American side of the barn we keep 30 cows and sell milk from these at Newport, Vermont. On the Canadian side we keep 10 Durham cows."

Judge Stump

Dear Judge: Was there ever an old maid who didn't advise her young women friends how to get husbands? MILDRED.

Aunt Semantha Stump never had any advice for the lovelorn. She was always too busy working on that problem for herself.

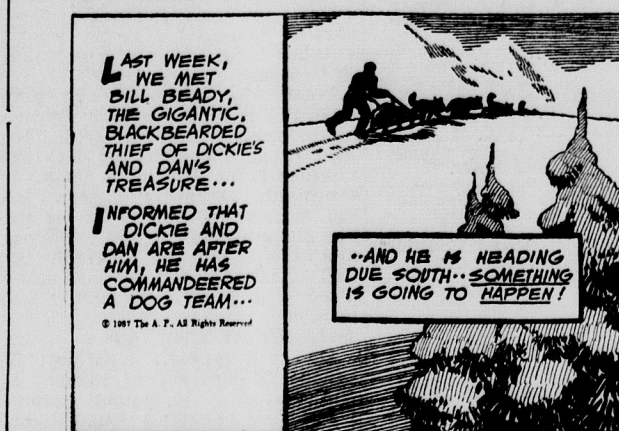

"That man wants me to lend him some money. Do you know anything about him?"

"Why, I know him as well as I know you. Don't lend him a bean, old man."

Life in Two Cities

In this pleasant fall weather, living in healthful, placid and happy Orange county, it is not easy for us to realize what existence must be like in two great foreign cities where war—undeclared, but vicious and deadly, nevertheless—is raging.

Shanghai has more than a million and a half residents, thus corresponding with Los Angeles in size. Madrid, in the other human hydrophobia zone, is a community ranking about with Cleveland, Ohio. Imagine, if you can, battles being waged by desperate armies around the Vermont and Manchester street intersection.

A vivid and surprising picture of the situation in Madrid is painted in a report from Marquis W. Childs, staff correspondent for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. He writes:

It was just a year ago in September that Madrid suffered what had been the most deadly aerial bombardment of the present civil war. Twelve heavy bombs fell, killing 160 persons and wounding 279, most of them women and children who were waiting in food lines.

Then through the end of October and early November, 1936, came a long and terrible series of bombings. At will the great Junker planes flew over this city of 800,000 persons, dropped their cargo of bombs and returned for more. On Nov. 6 the fascist artillery joined in the work of destruction, 21 shells falling on Madrid that day.

The whole Puerta del Sol, principal square, was one mass of flame from incendiary bombs. The Prado, Madrid's famous museum, was bombed. Bombs pierced the subway. The Hotel Savoy was bombed. The Novitiate of the Sisters of Charity was bombed. The list is long. And it went on. The death toll grew from week to week. Actually the bombardment has never stopped.

Yet today in Madrid a comparatively normal life goes on—and the city has grown in size. The public schools have opened. The movie houses are crowded—"Mutiny on the Bounty" is having a long run. Four or five legitimate theaters are in operation. The telephone service has never been interrupted for more than brief periods and then only in certain parts of the city. The subways are filled with homeward-bound workers at the rush hour. Soldiers and civilians mingle in coffee houses and billiard rooms. Smart looking shops are open. Twelve newspapers are being published.

In short, Madrid, as recent observers have agreed, is hardly less than miraculous. Military observers say it is a new and startling lesson in strategy, indicating that probably the importance of the airplane in modern warfare has been exaggerated. For ordinary persons it is a remarkable lesson in human courage and human patience—the ability to adjust, to incorporate a new factor of danger into the routine of daily life. In this sense it may serve as an example to other large cities when—few people say "if"—a general European war breaks out.

Elimination of the old "stop" in telegrams should do away with a lot of stale radio gags.

Problem in Chemistry

Out of the very murky world picture there looms one major fact sharp and clear, to-wit: The communistic theory of government can never be imposed by force.

Proofs in several quarters make it now almost axiomatic that there is something akin to a chemical antagonism in the human organism for that particular variety of compulsion.

In Germany the communists sought to disrupt a democratic form of government, thinking to swing government to communistic forms during the change. The resultant governmental set-up was decidedly fascistic.

In Russia, after 20 years in which one upheaval has followed closely on another, the communistic experiment has developed the very acme of autocratic government, more ruthless and more bloodthirsty than that of any czar.

The lesson the current world picture holds for the human race in this respect (and as typified by the Scandinavian nations) is this:

Racial or geographical groups may by their own vote veer in the direction of communal enterprise, testing it as they go, but they will not be driven or forced hurriedly in that direction by a dictator.

And the dictator or dictatorial group that tries to force the issue will meet the fate the human race somehow provides for the elements within it which it finds to be in chemical antagonism to the whole.

What the Nine-Power treaty seems to lack is power.

Human Tortoises

Maybe you've seen speed experts quoted as saying that there would be a limit to speed—that man and his devices could go only so fast and no faster.

Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews vouches for a little fly called the Cephonomyia which flies at the rate of 818 miles an hour.

This tiny insect, which lays its eggs under the skin of deer in New Mexico, actually flies so fast it leaves its own buzz behind. It travels 1200 feet a second, and sound can only make 1089 feet.

These facts about the little fly seem important enough to set forth here because they rather obviously refute any notion that man with his 300 and 400-mile-per-hour speeds has reached anything like the limit that can be attained by an animate being.

It's duck season over in China, too.

Have Mercy, Gentlemen

Please, floriculturists, while you're at work in your hothouses this winter, crossing and grafting roots, bulbs and seeds for the production of future beauty, please, won't you do this?

Won't you resolve among yourselves not to name any more of your beautiful creations after men?

If you but knew how terribly disconcerting it is to admire a gorgeous dahlia in a friend's garden and have him say, "Yes, that is my Peter B. Duzenberry." Or a marvelous chrysanthemum, only to learn that it is "the new Phineas Q. Hesperus," or that a perfect tulip wears the cognomen of "Mike O'Blip!"

Help, floriculturists, or we perish!

A GAMBLER WHO TALKS TOO MUCH

By Westbrook Pegler

PROVIDENCE.—Saturday's lesson told of a governor who got so mad in a political gutter-fight that he called out the national guard to avenge a personal insult published in a newspaper of dubious character, thus flouting the freedom of the press.

Today's will tell of a flip and brash little horse park promoter, operating Narragansett park in Pawtucket, just outside Providence, who has grown too big for his britches. His name is Walter O'Hara, and his race track is one of the greatest gambling plants in the world. He also runs the paper which called Governor Quinn a swarthy liar.

O'Hara has all the ego, the nervous energy, the gall and the ethics of Huey Long, but he hasn't Huey's intelligence or his way with people. Nevertheless, he regards himself as the governor of Rhode Island. You just ought to hear him sound off about what he's going to do. He is going to call a special session of the legislature. He will have a two-thirds majority, and he will impeach Quinn.

WHO IS THIS MAN?

And who is he? A public officer? No, a Rhode Islander? Well, only in a sort of way. He is a hustler out of Massachusetts who came into this state four years ago to build and run a horse park. Since then the gambling plant at Narragansett track has handled more than $100,000,000 under a monopolistic license permitting him and his stockholders to take down 8 1/2 per cent for themselves, plus breakage and the revenue from the concessions. Call it, say, seven or eight million dollars altogether that O'Hara and his plans have taken down for their end.

Under these conditions deep political affection exists between O'Hara and the Pawtucket city administration, whose mayor, Tom McCoy, plays cribbage with him for nickels in the ballyhoof office of the track these dull, sad autumn afternoons as the soldiers bar the gates and the wind moans through the empty passages beneath the stands where the mutual windows are shuttered.

The city administration is so strong for O'Hara that reporters from the opposition papers in Providence are not even allowed to enter the Pawtucket city hall. The city administration is so definitely with O'Hara that he can announce that he will have his Pawtucket boys call a special session of the legislature, as matter-of-factly as he might say that he is going to breed a dog. He may have even less respect for them. This is not a political leader who speaks of his legislative strength but his intention to toss out the elected governor, but the operator of a gambling plant whose conversation naively suggests that the office of the track is the rightful capital of Rhode Island.

TALKS TOO MUCH

But maybe O'Hara overspeaks himself. True, the horse people in times past have elected governors and owned legislatures in Kentucky, Florida and other states, but they have always gone about their business with some discretion. O'Hara, however, can't keep a still tongue in his head. He has boasted that he elected Governor Quinn. "I spent over $100,000 to elect him," he says. "And then he double-crossed me."

And he reviles Quinn verbally and in the paper which he bought with the astonishing flood of easy money received from the track. Horse park promoters everywhere realize that theirs is a chancy business, subject to political chills and the terrible evils of reform. The smart ones are careful not to flaunt their political power, lest the citizens get their pride up and resolve to show them, by God, who is boss by repealing the racing laws. Because it is merely a device for gambling, horse racing is held to be one with burglary and prostitution and is licensed only at some sacrifice of popular principle to ease the tax burden. In that status in Rhode Island the horse racket, nevertheless, has had the dumb effrontery to boast that it elected Quinn but found him ungrateful, and to announce that he will be kicked out and replaced by someone who can remember that the state exists for the gambling joint.

"We will call a special session," O'Hara says, just like that, "and then we will impeach him. I'll get him."

The horse people aren't grateful to O'Hara for all this. It is embarrassing. And, anyway, it is all very unnecessary, for O'Hara was doing fine with the best private pitch in the world, a monopoly in a rich state adjoining two other rich states. A little more of that and he may get himself repealed by the people. He talks altogether too much with his mouth.

EVERYDAY MOVIES

TUSTIN.—The citrus growers of this section met Saturday to form a fruit frost protective league. B. H. Sharpless was elected president, and J. H. Lippiant, secretary. The league will build a large storage tank near the packing house on the railroad line so oil may be delivered at wholesale rates.

I'll Tell You

By BOB BURNS

I was just thinkin' what an important part discipline plays in regulatin' our lives. Discipline ain't nothin' but installin' in us a fear of what's gonna happen to us if we make a wrong move. That's the reason small boys don't fool around with a hornet's nest more than once, because the hornets have their own way of handin' out discipline. We can break ourselves of almost any bad habit if we just make the penalty strong enough. My Uncle Gus Rookes use to leave the house, and he would be gone all afternoon. I wondered where he was spendin' so much of his time, so one day I followed him, and when I saw him go up in the hayloft, I sneaked up the ladder and peeked at him, and there he was, sittin' on a powder keg. I says, "What in the world are you doin'—spendin' so much time on that powder keg?" and he says, "Well, I'll tell you. I've got an awful weak will power, and I'm tryin' to break myself of smokin'!" The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Editor's Note: The Brass Ring, good for one free ride on The Washington Merry-Go-Round, is hereby awarded to Solicitor General Stanley Reed, the government's chief defense counsel in bouts before the supreme court, and possible nominee for any future vacancy in that body.)

Stanley Reed, legal shock trooper of New Deal, gets the brass ring; solicitor general in the front line as government won 2 out of 3 cases; carries burden by unremitting labor; refuses to worry about defeat; fighting liberal since early days in Kentucky; won office by skill.

WASHINGTON.—The old adage that "all that glitters is not gold" never had truer application than to the New Deal's justice department.

In the public mind the top legal light of the regime is Homer S. Cummings. As attorney general he has the title and the honors. But the tall, easy-going Connecticut Yankee is not the real legal burden-bearer of the administration. That responsibility rests on far abler and more energetic, though less famous shoulders. They belong to a tall, quiet-mannered, publicity-shy Kentuckian, Stanley Reed. Reed has been the New Deal's shock trooper in the great battles before the supreme court. In that time he has fought more momentous legal encounters than most lawyers do in a lifetime. Every major New Deal issue has seen Reed in the firing-line manning the administration's guns.

Here is a list of some of the historic cases he has argued: NRA—AAA—TVA—securities and exchange commission—gold clause—Harris v. United States—Wagner labor act—railway labor act—processing tax recovery.

Before Reed was hastily thrust into this post, the government was losing two out of three cases before the supreme court. After his appointment the score was exactly reverse. Last year, out of 78 cases, the government won 56.

HOW HE DOES IT

Justice Harlan Stone once remarked to a friend that preparation of any one of the major cases that Reed has argued ordinarily would require a year's hard work. Reed has carried his staggering load by means of almost superhuman labor. He works four and five nights a week, every week of the year. In four years his only vacation has been a three-day golf outing. Last summer, when Washington officialdom fled to recreation spots after the exhausting session of congress, Reed continued to burn the midnight oil at his desk, to complete a series of briefs on complex tax questions that the supreme court had asked him to have ready when it reconvened.

Despite his ceaseless and immense work, Reed seldom seems to tire, or become fretful. Once, however, the strain was dramatically revealed. During the cotton act hearings in 1935, Reed keeled over in the courtroom in a dead faint.

Ruggedly built, he keeps in physical trim by walking several miles daily to and from his office, and by playing golf stripped to the waist at a strictly masculine club. He never allows anything to worry or annoy him. When he is fighting a case he battles with all his powers, but once it is over he puts it out of his mind and goes on to the next issue.

OLD LIBERAL

Because of his genuine modesty for personal publicity, only Reed's close friends know about his longstanding devotion to the cause of the underdog.

His fighting in the ranks of liberalism goes back 25 years, to a time when such views were not so popular or politically profitable as they are today. Now 53 years old, he was then a young lawyer in Marysville, Ky., only a year or two out of his studies at Virginia and Columbia universities and the Paris Sorbonne. Directly across from his residence was a textile mill. Reed noticed young children entering the factory at dawn and leaving at night.

He decided to do something about it, for the state legislature on a platform, pledging a child labor law. He was bitterly opposed. Some of his best friends in the little town broke with him and never again spoke to him. But Reed was elected and made good his promise, putting through the first child labor act in Kentucky.

From the industrial scene he turned to agriculture and became a leader in the fight against farm tenancy. He helped organize the famous Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative association, later becoming its chief counsel.

STARTLING MISSILE

In his many encounters in the supreme court, Reed has had a number of amusing experiences.

One of the most hilarious occurred during the gold clause fight. Reed was sitting at the counsel's table listening to the argument of James H. McIntosh, attorney for the Bankers Trust company. Suddenly a red and white object struck the pile of papers in front of Reed and bounced up.

Before it could drop again a hand flashed out, deftly caught the strange missile and, as Reed, in startled amazement, looked up he saw McIntosh pop it into his mouth and without pause continue his discussion.

"That was the greatest exhibition of composure I have ever seen," Reed relates admiringly. "In the heat of his argument, McIntosh's false teeth had fallen out. Without losing a word he snatched them up, shot them back into his mouth, and continued talking. That's what I call poise."

VARYING DIET

The Deeds live quietly in a small hotel apartment, where Mrs. Reed does her own cooking.

A standing joke of Reed's is that his diet varies with the weight of his wife. Mrs. Reed is one of the Capital's loveliest women and watches her figure closely. When she is on a reducing regime, her husband also goes on slim rations. When Mrs. Reed wants to gain a little, he can indulge his passion for chocolate ice cream.

Reed has orders from Mrs. Reed not to eat his favorite dish except when she serves it at home. But he does not object when his secretary orders it for the lunch he always eats at his desk.

Aside from golf and walking, Reed's only other diversion is reading. He is an authority on Kentucky history and hopes some day to have the leisure to write a history of his native state.

What Other Editors Say

FANCY WORD

No fashionable vocabulary today can afford to be without "schizophrenia." Guaranteed to restore the luster to last year's repartee and make it sound like new, it gives promise of putting its predecessors to shame.

Modern as Picasso, contemporary as cellophane, this pleasingly scientific combination of sounds is destined to sweep the country like a presidential candidate's favorite dream.

Carole Lombard, in one of her recent scampers across the screen, confessed audibly and with gestures, though not yet in technicolor, to being "schizophrenic." Whether this was an intentional pun or a Hollywood solecism can never be definitely known.

Roughly speaking, schizophrenia is a somewhat complicated version of our old friend introversion, with a few extras thrown in to make it more macabre. Neither the species of psychic Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, nor the Pied Piper of the subconscious that it has generally been mistaken for, schizophrenia is a progressive disease in which emotion and thought are in a constant state of war, in which the life of fantasy gradually supersedes and demolishes reality.

But on all fronts, mental, emotional, physical and sexual, the schizophrenic encounters conflict. His is a personality of strife, divided within himself, he is a stranger to peace. He ends by abdicating from reality and withdrawing into a protective shell of illusion. And as the malaise of the spirit, taking root more profoundly, assumes the bewildering and complex form of schizophrenia, he escapes from the confines of sanity into another dimension of unknown terrors and delights.—Coronet.

A RICH LIFE

The long life of Robert Underwood Johnson was invested in fine things. He sought to protect the beauty of nature against commercial enterprise and is said to have inspired the enthusiasm of Theodore Roosevelt, who dramatized conservation into a crusading policy. He served the cause of international friendship so well and faithfully that kingdoms and republics bestowed on him their highest decorations.

But the most memorable accomplishment in his career of distinction was the persuasion he brought to bear on Gen. Grant to write the "Memoirs," still accounted by good authorities as among the half-dozen most valuable books on American history. Poet, editor, man of public affairs, his death at 84 removes one of the country's personality landmarks.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE AP Science Editor

NEW YORK.—The elephant of Bethlehem is creating a stir in science.

The bones of this elephant were discovered three years ago by the owner of a garden. He was digging for water on the highest point in Bethlehem. They rested 15 feet below the surface.

In studies since then scientists have come to some conclusions. This elephant was of the Asiatic, not the African type. He was somewhat primitive, not as well developed as the two present day species.

The time when he lived in Bethlehem was Pleistocene, and probably less than a million years ago. It is not too early for the first known bones of man which have been found in various parts of the world.

No human bones that old have been found in Bethlehem nor anywhere in Palestine. But when the Elephant of Bethlehem lived, the climate was warmer than now, and the country was not so dry. Bethlehem was then apparently a fair sort of earthly paradise.

Stylings in metropolitan dogs change in the same way as feminine fashions. Fifteen years ago there was a pronounced vogue for the white Russian wolfhound, touched off when a graceful Duke appeared, leading one on a silver leash, a late afternoon avenue promenade. Then the chow became a sudden rage, said to have been started by Leonore Ulric during her top days... The Boston took a spurt when Count Boni de Castellane came over to the States, and became so charmed with this all-American dog that he appeared everywhere with one and was a Boston owner and fancier to the time of his death. There was a wire-haired vogue, too, and the Airedale had a late afternoon popularity of the Peke and Pom. And so it went. But today the most popular dog, judged by sales in the fashionable kennels, is the dachshund. It went out completely during the war, due to German origin, and was rarely seen save among the pipe-smoking Teutons in the Yorkville bistrotiers. One of the assets of the toy-sized dachshund is its adaptability to apartment living.

Few comebacks so chirped Broadway as that of Jack Osterman, in a prolonged eclipse after a running start that had at an early age landed him along headliner row. This summer during the hottest months he filled a night club with his typical Broadway crowd with his song and funny sayings in the brassy modern tempo.

Bagatelles: George M. Cohan in his new political satire is programmed as Franklin D. Roosevelt. The Duke was early on his favorite new American slang word is "sockdolager." Oscar Shaw is said to be the wealthiest of the decade ago juveniles... Lillian Gish refuses to use lip or cheek rouge on or off... A London daily is dickering with H. G. Wells for a daily column.

Tableaux: He stood near a Saks window in the full glow of a furious blush, grinning sheepishly. To a friend who knew him well he confessed, "He was conscious of the smile of a beautiful lady while walking along and halting, he tipped his hat and glanced back. Into the dead par of one of those realistic window dummies in sports togs."

UP AND DOWN

"Mother, isn't it funny that hats cost more than radios?" Mother: "But they really don't, dear. What makes you think so?" "Well, a sign in a window back there said, 'Hats, $10 up!' and we just passed another window with a sign that says, 'Radios, $10 down.'"
